Goldberg Says Good Future May Result From Viet War

RECOGNITION FOR OUTER MONGOLIA?

Secretary of State Dean Rusk told his news conference in Washington today that the U.S. has been considering recognition of Outer Mongolia, but he did not indicate any early more along this line. He said "many things could happen" in U.S. relations with Red China if its Communist government was to "live in peace." He said the Mongolian question is one the State Department has "on our agenda." He also said he hopes the U.S., Britain and Russia can move soon toward a treaty banning spread of nuclear weapons.

Envoy Speaks At Berkeley

BERKELEY (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Arthur J. Goldberg said today the war in Viet Nam, although a tragedy, could lead to a future where men no longer fear "the obsessive risk of annihilation."

"If the fears and agonies of the war in Viet Nam can lead us another step toward collectivising the international police responsibility and closer to a wider realism about the impossibility of all wars, even its tragedy may be redeemed," Goldberg said.

"It can be the prelude if not to a golden age, at least to a world freed of the obsessive risk of annihilation."

Goldberg gave the principal address at Charter Day ceremonies on the University of California's Berkeley campus. He was one of six persons presented with an honorary degree.

In a speech prepared for delivery at this center of vocal opposition to U.S. Policy in Viet Nam, Goldberg commended opposition to the war as part of a "continuous and constructive dialogue."

FREE SPEECH

But he said citizens opposing current policies "have the elementary obligation to respect the right of free speech by and for all, not excluding government spokesmen."

Goldberg said the chief aim of U.S. military action in the Southeast Asian nation was to establish the principle that guerrilla warfare "fanned and fed from outside, is as impermissible a means for settling international disputes as any other form of violence."

Once that is accomlpished, he said, the United States seeks only "to grant the people of South Viet Nam the time, the security and he opportunity to express their own preferences as free as is humanly possible from coercion of any form."

U.N. NOT READY

He said United Nations participation to win and keep peace in Viet Nam would be welcomed by the United States.

"But it would be unrealistic not to recognize that the membership of the United Nations is not yet prepared to accept" such a responsibility.

Until that time, "only a few members of the international community are willing to join in the onerous and costly task of again demonstrating with arms that the use of force is not a tolerable method to settle international grievances."

Parks Commission Votes To Stick To Development Plan

Alternate Would Allocate Fund For 14 Specific Park Projects

By RICHARD LYTTLE

The Marin County Park and Recreation Commission last night voted 6-0 to stick with the original $4.3 million county park purchase and development plan proposed for the June 7 ballot.

The vote, taken after Commissioner Peter Gottheiner had left the meeting, set aside an alternate that would allocate $4 million to 14 specific park projects.

The action came after Supervisor Peter H. Behr, author of the original proposal, explained his thinking in having $2.3 million of the total allocated to cities and districts on a population basis.

The alternate was proposed after the population plan came under attack from the City of Larkspur and got only mild support from some other quarters.

Behr said last night that setting up a project allocation might be seen as the county "big brothering" the cities and special districts.

With flat sums allocated for cities and districts on the population formula, Behr said, it would be up to the city councils and directors of the districts to say how the money would be used prior to the election.

Behr said he had "no pride of authorship" in the original plan; but his statement, coming near the close of the two and one-half hour session at the Civic Center, was followed at once by a motion by Commissioner Melton Ferris that the original bond plan be recommended to the board. It was seconded by commissioner Aline McLain.

The commission also gave 6-0 approval to a recommendation that supervisors adopt a statement declaring the county ready to cooperate at all times with cities and districts in applying for federal and state funds to supplement the bond funds.

The action last night was taken over the strong protest of Acting City Mgr. Robert C. Bundy of Larkspur. He continued to argue that the population allocation, giving his city only $129,747, would jeopardize

Marines End One Operation, Start Another

Cong Regiment Reported Smashed; Others Battered

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Five thousand U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops brought the fighting phase of "Operation Texas" to an end last night and claimed 1,236 Communists killed or wounded in five days of battle in the central coastal plains.

Senior American and Vietnamese officers said the campaign in Quang Ngai Province, 330 miles north of Saigon smashed an entire Viet Cong regiment, battered several more battalions and cleaned out five villages in an area long dominated by the Communists.

Allied losses were described as light, although some small assault units took heavy punishment during helicopter landings.

NEW OPERATION

As the Leathernecks used 6,000 pounds of dynamite to blow up abandoned Communist fortifications today, other Marines began a new "Operation Kings" to protect the rice harvest farther north near Da Nang.

Two Viet Cong companies opened up on the Marines with mortar shells, inflicting some casualties, but officers said the Americans killed six Viet Cong and captured two weapons.

Otherwise ground action was mostly static. But U.S. Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers flew 42 strike missions against North Viet Nam yesterday, concentrating again on communications facilities to hamper the flow of men and supplies to the Viet Cong.

An Air Force spokesman announced the loss of two American aircraft yesterday.

TWO CRASHES

An Air Force F-105 crashed in North Viet Nam 15 miles northwest of Dong Hoi while on an armed reconnaissance mission. The spokesman said no parachute was observed, and the pilot was listed as missing. Heavy antiaircraft and automatic weapon fire was reported in the area at the time.

Supervisor Gnoss Faces Competition

A surprise race in the Fifth Supervisorial District developed today on the final day for filing petitions of candidacy for the June 7 primaries.

Shortly before noon, Lynes Emil Downing, manager of California Land Title Co. of San Rafael, filed notice of intention to run against William A. Gnoss, veteran Fifth District supervisor who had appeared to have a clear field for re-election without competition.

This made four county posts contested for the primaries: supervisors from First and Third districts (the only two districts electing to the board this year, district attorney, and coroner-public administrator.

There will also be a contest for the Democratic nomination for House of Representatives in the First District, which includes Marin—although the field of candidates was narrowed to two today by withdrawal of Frank S. Petersen of Ukiah.

Downing, of 16 Truman Drive, Novato, became the title company manager for Marin County operations last May. He previously served as escrow supervisor and manager of the Novato branch office.

A host of other offices remained uncontested as the 5 p.m. filing deadline drew near. They include sheriff, county clerk, recorder, assessor, auditor-controller, four judge's posts, treasurer-tax collector, and superin-

Sen. Petersen Quits Race; To Seek Judgeship Instead

State Sen. Frank S. Petersen, D-Ukiah, who opened his campaign for Congress three weeks ago, announced today he is pulling out of the race and will seek a judgeship instead.

Petersen's withdrawal leaves Marin County Supervisor Thomas T. Storer and Phillip Drath, San Rafael "peace candidate," to battle it out for the Democratic nomination in June. The winner will take on incumbent Don H. Clausen, Republican, in November.

George E. McCabe, Sonoma State College administrator who had thrown his support to Petersen, indicated today that Petersen's withdrawal would not change his decision not to run.

"I'm about 99 per cent sure I won't run," said McCabe this morning. Last week, he told a Marin group he cannot afford to run. "That financial situation is still unchanged," he said today.

Petersen announced his withdrawal with this statement:

"With all Californians, I mourn the untimely death of Superior Court Judge Michiel Messner of Del Norte. I have requested Governor Brown to submit my name to the State Bar of California as a possible successor to Judge Messner.

"This has prompted, in part, my decision to withdraw my candidacy for Congress."

Petersen said he is not assured the judgeship, "but I have concluded I should remain available in the event Governor Brown wishes to appoint me."

Supervisor Storer took the Petersen announcement with this observation:

"Naturally I am not unhappy to learn there will be one less opponent in the primary. But in a way, I think it would have been terribly interesting had he remained in the race.

"My governing thought at the moment, regardless of who enters the race, is to concentrate on beating Congressman Clausen in November.

Leydecker Formally Bows Out

County Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker today issued the long-expected announcement that he will not be a candidate for re-election.

He said he will support Melvin S. Warenback of Terra Linda for election as his successor. Warenback will be in a three-way race with John F. McInnis, former San Rafael mayor, and Dr. William F. Upton, 14-year veteran of the county planning commission, in the June 7 primary.

Leydecker said that during the last few days "several hundred people have urged me to seek re-election." However, he said:

"I find that my responsibilities as president of a growing bank with significant plans for expansion have become so great that I must at this time withdraw from the race. (Leydecker is president of Redwood National Bank.)

"Furthermore, I understand that a candidate whom I am pleased to support has filed for office. He is Mel Warenback of Terra Linda, who has done an outstanding job in that area as president of the community services district."

Leydecker said he will serve out the remainder of his term, which ends next Jan. 1.

"Although I must at this time devote my full time to my business, I hope in the future to be

China's Mao Is Reported Gravely Sick

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) —Red China's supreme leader, Mao Tze-tung, was reported today to be gravely ill.

The diplomatic reports of Mao's illness, which could not be confirmed, followed word from Peking that Mao had not been seen in public or at government functions for some time.

Mao, chairman of the Chinese Communist party, has been reported in frail health since last year when diplomats who had been in contact with him noticed a marked change in his previously robust appearance.

He was said to have remained until recently the driving force behind Peking's major policy decisions, includ-

Inspector Doubts Fire Cause Was Electrical

Hans Berge, Marin County's chief building inspector, declared today that County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom was in error when he concluded an electrical short-circuit caused the $57,000 house fire which killed a 7-year-old girl in Lucas Valley Tuesday.

Berge was asked to investigate the blaze by County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost, who wanted to know more about Bloom's theory that the 220-volt electrical panel caused the fire, in case changes in the electrical code might be called for.

Noting that he has a background in electrical work, Berge said he had rejected the theory, believing the short-circuit did not occur until after the fire was under way and burned off the insulation.

The true cause, he said, "could have been a number of things—maybe an appliance. It is going to be difficult to say for sure."

The fire destroyed the home of the Lawrence K. Fong family at 9 Mount Rainier Drive and took the life of Rebecca Ellen Fong.

Alarmed owners of Eichler-built homes in the area have called the building inspector, asking that he look over their houses to determine whether any general hazardous conditions exist.

Berge, Bloom and their aides went through a dozen homes

Gas Linked To Fire In Marin City

Sheriff's Inspector A. V. Menjou said today three bottles, all apparently having contained gasoline, were found within an abandoned duplex burned by arsonists in Marin City Wednesday night.

He said the bottles, one a pint wine bottle containing a small quantity of gasoline, and two broken bottles, are believed to have been stuffed with paper sacks, filled with gasoline, then ignited and tossed into the building.

The bottles, he said, will be taken to the State Criminal Identification and Investigation Bureau in Sacramento within a few days for analysis.

The structure, Building 85, was set afire by at least one of six youths seen by Sheriff's Deputy Billy Dews. The officer said he saw them walking toward the building, saw one ignite a bottle and toss it through the window.

Dews chased but lost the youths.

EXCHANGE OF SALUTES—Wearing his general's uniform, France's President Charles De Gaulle responds to a salute from other officers during a medal presentation ceremony yesterday in the Hotel des Invalides military museum in Paris. (AP Wirephoto via cable)

De Gaulle Not Satisfied With LBJ's NATO Position

PARIS (UPI) —President Charles De Gaulle plans to serve notice on the United States in "the very near future" to start moving its troops and bases out of France, government sources said today.

They predicted this would be the French leader's reply to President Johnson's letter on NATO which De Gaulle was said to consider "negative" and an evasion of the call for "tactical negotiations."

De Gaulle was said to have been completely unmoved by Johnson's declaration that the door remained open to France to return at any time to NATO.

Meanwhile, the United States and France's other NATO allies were working on replies to De Gaulle's memoranda of two weeks ago informing them of his decision to pull out of the alliance's military setup.

American sources said the replies probably would simply acknowledge De Gaulle's statements and would ask for details on how he planned to put them into effect.

The sources said theer is no possibility of the United States meekly getting out of the bases until De Gaulle has spelled out in detail what he wants.

American sources estimated the absolute minimum time needed for evacuation of the bases of one year and said it probably would take considerably longer.

They said the bases and military installations are estimated to involve a $2.5 billion investment by the United States. They said lengthy negotiations will be needed to determine their residual value before they are handed over to De Gaulle.

Eastland Hits Supreme Court Poll Tax Ban

ATLANTA (UPI) —Mississippi stands today as the last state in the South where the poll tax is still a requirement for voting.

The U.S. Supreme Court in a 6-3 decision yesterday struck Virginia's poll tax as unconstitutional. The ruling hailed as a "great victory" by opponents of the tax was expected to have a direct effect on Mississippi's $2 tax.

Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., said the court's decision has "further degraded the rights of the states as granted under the Constitution.

"The Supreme Court has once more flown into the realm of social engineering and political philosophy and abandoned all concepts of traditional constitutional law," Eastland said.

"Poll taxes did not involve discrimination on the basis of race, creed or color," he added.

Vernon Jordan, director of the Southern Regional Council's Voter Education Project, called the court's ruling "a great victory, although it might not affect very many states.

"With the end of the literacy tests, and now the poll tax, the only hurdle is now the registrant," Jordan said. "This shifts full responsibility for voting to the person who is registering. That's where it ought to be."

Tax Consultant Claims Wolden Got Money Through Middleman

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The prosecution's star witness in the bribery trial of San Francisco assessor Russell Wolden says he transmitted money to the assessor indirectly, through aides.

The witness, tax consultant James C. Tooke of Castro Valley, also testified yesterday that he once paid $700 cash directly to Wolden—but that was to hire a poll taker.

The testimony of the $700 payment was the first time Tooke said he handed Wolden money directly. Tooke has testified he paid out nearly $70,000 to Wolden's office between 1960 and 1964 in return for tax breaks given his clients.

Tooke, who has been on the stand four days in the 23-day-long Wolden trial in San Francisco Superior Court, testified that in cases besides the $700 payment, he paid money destined for Wolden through three persons.

These he identified as Orville Wright, former San Francisco deputy city attorney; Ralph Yeo, retired chief legal aide in the San Francisco office of the old Internal Revenue Bureau, and Max Newstat, former longtime Wolden aide in the assessor's office.

Tooke said that payments destined for Wolden were handed to Newstat, who testified weeks ago that Wolden personally directed assessment reductions for 40 firms amounting to more than $32 million.

"Reference fees," Tooke said, were paid to Wright and Yeo at Wolden's direction. The fees, which Tooke described on the stand as legitimate and not bribes, came when Wolden referred clients outside of San Francisco to him, Tooke testified.

These clients were firms beyond Wolden's jurisdiction, Tooke said. He explained that the clients were referred to him as a consultant who might help businesses obtain tax assessment reductions.

Tooke gave no examples in his latest testimony of the size of referral fees. The previous day he testified he paid Wright a $4,704 fee in 1961.

The $700 payment for the poll taker, Tooke explained, was so Wolden could find a pollster for him to sample the prospects in the 1962 Los Angeles assessor's race.

He said Wolden had mentioned Hal Dunleavy, a local pollster, in earlier conversations.

"I took the $700 out of my wallet and gave it to him," Tooke related. "Wolden called some one in from the outer office and gave the money to him, but I don't remember who it was."

Under cross examination by Wolden's attorney, Tooke testified that when he paid money to Newstat the property assessments of his firms were reduced below the normal level in San Francisco. But this level was still well within the normal level set by other counties, he added.

Tooke said the last time he contacted Wolden himself was by telephone several months ago when Tooke learned his tax consultant files had been stolen from his office.

The files later turned up in the hands of authorities and charges swiftly followed. Tooke said when he talked to Wolden that last time, the assessor advised him to locate an attorney and not contact him again.

Nevada City, the County seat of Nevada County, was named for the Sierra Nevada and not the State of Nevada.

yesterday, and planned to continue today. Berge said the inspections turned up no evidence of faulty construction but uncovered many hazards which homeowners have created themselves, such as improper uses of extension cords.

"These are things people are going to have to clean up," Berge said.

The electrical panel from the Fong home has been sent to the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

The investigation, said Berge, may lead to strengthening the building codes to prevent such practices as the use of plywood fastened directly to the studs, or other changes in materials "to cut down the fire spread." But he predicted they would bring no basic change in the open construction of homes built by Eichler or other Bay Area firms.

"That's what people like. I don't think anyone will change that."

Chief Bloom said he plans to conduct a general inspection of homes in the area within the next two weeks to uncover fire hazards. He said the inspections have shown "these homes are just as safe as any other homes."

in a position again to go before the voters to seek another office," he said.

Taking a swipe at McInnis, whom he nosed out for election to a short term on the board of supervisors in November, 1964, Leydecked continued:

"I hope that the voters of the First District will not turn over the supervisorial position to any person who represents the kind of thinking and lack of action which have characterized San Rafael city government in the past."

Leydecker said he believes the board of supervisors has "provided significant leadership for the citizens of Marin" during his service. He cited as accomplishments "strengthening of the planning and parks and recreation departments, clarification and upgrading of the county administrator position, reduction in county tax rate, start of a massive effort to attract economic activity to the county which will broaden its tax base, development of community mental health facilities, formation of the Marin Transit District, and the successful passage of a bond issue for completion of the Civic Center complex."

Leydecker was appointed to the board by Gov. Edmund G. Brown in July, 1963, following the death of Supervisor Walter R. Castro, to serve until the next election. In a three-way primary contest the following June, he ran a close second to McInnis, and in November won election by a 257-vote margin.

Intended Bride Found Murdered

FRESNO (AP) — The slashed body of a young woman who was to be married in June was found today lying at the edge of a road in South Fresno.

Deputy Coroner Alphord Dickinson said Sharon McBride, about 20, was stabbed about 25 times from the abdomen to her neck. Her neck, chin and forehead were bruised.

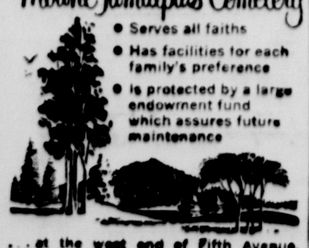

Assistant Dist. Atty. William C. Daly said she worked for Tenderland Freezer Beef, Fresno, "and we are questioning fellow employees."

Dirksen Presses For Prayer Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said today he will press for a Senate vote this session on his controversial school prayer amendment.

Dirksen wants a constitutional amendment providing that nothing in the Constitution should be interpreted as preventing voluntary prayers in schools. The amendment would ban any official school prayer.

Dirksen attempted without success to get action on the bill last year after the Supreme Court ruled out school prayers.

Commission Recommends Park Work

The State Park Commission today recommended that the state spend $3.5 million within three years to develop recreation facilities on Angel Island State Park.

The commission did not, however, propose a specific plan of development. This morning it heard recommendations from the State Department of Parks and Recreation and the California Marine Parks and Harbors Assn.

The state department has unveiled a development plan to open up the island to about 10,000 visitors at a time by enlarging four main areas. Under the plan, Ayala Cove, North, East and West Garrisons would be developed into family and group picnic units, historic exhibits, snack bars and bike rental facilities.

At present, only Ayala Cove is open to the public on the 640-acre park.

The marine association recommended today that a marina cove at North Garrison be added to the state plans.

Yesterday, the commissioners toured the island with about 65 state parks personnel, local officials and representatives of conservation groups.

In its meeting in San Francisco, the commission recommended to the governor and the legislature that the money be appropriated.

and ammunition was shot down by ground fire 10 miles northwest of An Khe while supporting a ground operation by 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division troops.

On the political front, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky faced a threat of antigovernment violence from a student leader in the northern university city of Hue.

Nguyen Huu Giao, president of the student wing of a Buddhist political action group called "People's Struggle for the Revolution," gave Ky until Sunday to answer Buddhist demands for a popularly elected civilian government.

Giao said "there may be violence" if the government tries to block student demonstrations and warned, "There are plans for any move Ky may make. The students are well prepared."

Hue University remained closed, and Giao said the shutdown would continue until Ky yields.

A general strike entered its third day in Da Nang, another northern troublespot. Both cities have been declared off limits to U.S. troops since the student and Buddhist agitation began after the dismissal of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, a Buddhist ally, as commander of the army's 1st Corps area on March 10.

As major fighting subsided on the central coast, the U.S. 25th Infantry Division closed out a month-long campaign in the rain forests 35 miles north of the highland capital of Ban Me Thuot. The infantrymen killed 124 Communists in Operation Garfield, a spokesman said.

tendent of schools—for all of which only the incumbents had filed.

Biggest field is out for coroner-public administrator, with four candidates seeking the post to be evacated by incumbent Frank J. Keaton. They are Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, Tiburon physician; Gilbert F. Freitas, San Rafael policeman; Richard F. Wood, San Rafael industrial consultant, and William C. Bradley, assistant coroner.

Three candidates are seeking election as county supervisor from District 1. With the incumbent, Byron W. Leydecker, dropping out, the race apparently will be among former San Rafael Mayor John F. McInnis; Dr. William F. Upton, a dentist and member of the county planning commission for 15 years, and Melvin S. Warenback, Terra Linda civic leader.

In the campaign for district attorney are incumbent Bruce B. Bales and A. Leonard Bjorklund Jr., Sausalito attorney and former Alameda County deputy district attorney.

Primary contest for the Democratic nomination for House of Representatives, First Congressional District, is between Phillip V. Drath, San Rafael contractor and peace advocate, and Thomas T. Storer, member of the board of supervisors and former deputy district attorney.

Don Clausen, incumbent, is unopposed on the Republican ticket for the house seat.

Also unopposed in the primaries are John F. McCarthy, incumbent state senator, District 4, seeking the Republican nomination, and Pearce Young, assemblyman from Solano and Napa counties, seeking the Democratic nomination for McCarthy's job.

Unchallenged in the primaries for nomination for assemblyman of the Seventh District are incumbent William T. Bagley, Republican from San Rafael, and Robert E. Mertle, Santa Venetia businessman seeking the Democratic nomination.

Apparently assured of reelection without opposition are Michael Mitchell, auditor-controller; Bert W. Broemmel, assessor; George H. Gnoss, county clerk; Louis P. Mountanos, sheriff; Stanley J. Fontez, treasurer; Virgil S. Hollis, superintendent of schools; Noel T. Giacomini, recorder; Judges Harold J. Haley, Judge Joseph G. Wilson and Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court, and Judge Leonard A. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court.

Humphrey Expects France In NATO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey predicted today that "much-needed revisions" of the NATO structure will result from the differences between French President Charles De Gaulle and the United States.

He also said he expected to see the day when France will "return as a leading partner of the NATO structure rather than a reluctant member."

Humphrey said he personally feels De Gaulle "jumped the time schedule" on modernization of NATO. But, he said, a general re-examination of NATO is in order because times have changed. He mentioned, for one thing, that Germany was much weaker when NATO was formed.

More Filings For County Committees

Four more persons filed today for party Central committee posts in Marin County.

Robert D. Carrow, 32, mayor of Novato and an attorney, is seeking re-election to Democratic Central Committee, District 5. He lives at 29 Truman Drive, Novato. Peter R. Johnson, 34, incumbent, filed for Republican Central Committee, District 3. He is an attorney residing at 41 Beverly Terrace, Mill Valley.

ing its harsh anti-American and anti-Soviet lines.

His policies resulted in the latest Chinese decision to boycott the Moscow Communist party congress, opening next Tuesday. Peking made its decision known Wednesday in a bristling attack on the Soviets, charging they were collaborating with the United States to encircle China.

Diplomatic informants, well acquainted with the Peking line-up, cautioned in the face of the latest reports about Mao's ill health against the likelihood of any major switch in Red China's policy.

Neither the United States nor Russia, they said, should anticipate any major policy switch even after Mao steps down from the official scene.

His immediate successor, or successors, they insisted, will pursue the same hard line policy for a long time to come.

It would probably take quite some time before changes—if any—can be expected, probably not until the regime that follows Mao is in turn replaced by a third-line set, they said.

Bridge Leaper's Body Recovered

The body of a young San Francisco woman was recovered by the Coast Guard yesterday shortly after she carefully left her shoes and purse on the sidewalk and threw herself from the Golden Gate Bridge.

Barbara Hayslit, 26, was seen by a passing motorist as she sat on the bridge railing. She had disappeared over the side before a California Highway Patroman could reach her.

No note or other explanation could be found in her purse, which contained only a few dollars, the patrol reported.

PARKS

the city's own plans for development of its 50-acre park.

In the alternate proposal, Larkspur would receive $173,000 in bond money, with state and federal funds to be sought to raise the total to $500,000.

The original proposal, however, got support from Novato, San Rafael, and the Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District.

Jack Brandon, chairman of the Terra Linda district, told the commission that the alternate, taking only projects of county-wide significance, would penalize those entities which had taken steps to provide recreation. He said the neighborhood recreation programs were a vital part of life in Marin.

Under the original proposal, the Terra Linda district would get $100,620. Under the alternate, the closest parks would be Gallinas Creek boat ramp and China Camp.

Joseph D. Rodota, director of the San Rafael recreation department, declared the alternate proposal was only serving to confuse matters. The city would receive $511,738 under the plan, the biggest single allocation.

J. Julien Baget, city manager of Novato, reported his council had already endorsed the first plan, as had the City of Mill Valley. Novato would receive $415,757 under the population formula.

The alternate plan actually listed a total of 16 park projects, but called for financing Stafford Lake near Novato and Deer Park near Fairfax entirely by state and federal funds.

Ferris said the state may seek to get federal money cornered for state parks, with none going to counties and cities. He urged a lobby effort by Marin to prevent this.

"This certainly should be done," county park and recreation director Pierre W. Joske declared.

Burglar Sleeps In Victim's Bed

Loss of several items including a television set, a radio, and a typewriter in a burglary of the home of Mark Emil Harris, Eden Roc Apartments, 1 Eden Roc Drive, Sausalito, was reported today by sheriff's officers.

Harris told deputies entries was by forcing a front door. Also missing was a woman's diamond ring and an adding machine. Officers said a bed had been slept in.

Mrs. Ola B. Williams of 923 Donahue Street, Marin City, said someone broke a rear door of her cleaning establishment at 512 Drake Avenue, Marin City. Nothing was taken, however, officers said.

Hughes led a party of 41 who returned recently after a tour of Japan, Hong Kong, Formosa, the Phillippines and Thailand.

OBITUARIES

H.L. Shoup Family's Rites Set

Funeral for the four members of the Hiram L. Shoup family, killed Wednesday when their car plunged off a bridge into the Napa River, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Passalacqua Funeral Home, 901 West Second Street, Benicia.

Shoup, 57; his wife, Juanita B. Shoup, also 57; a son, James L. Shoup, 18, and a daughter, Marilyn Shoup, all died in the accident. They had moved from Benicia to 5 Spring Road, San Anselmo, about three weeks ago.

The Solano County coroner's office yesterday reported an autopsy showed that all four died of drowning, thus ruling out the possibility Shoup, the driver, might have suffered a heart attack.

The elder Shoups are survived by three other daughters, Mrs. Jean Allman of Vallejo and Mrs. Joanne Bettencourt and Mrs. Yvonne Keck, both of Benicia, and a son, Harry C. Shoup of Benecia, and 15 grandchildren.

Shoup is survived by a brother, John Shoup of Michigan.

Mrs. Shoup is survived by her father, Glen Kenyon of Michigan; a brother, Kenneth Liggett of Vallejo, and a sister, Mrs. Barbara Mossbarger of Vallejo.

Burial will be in Benicia Cemetery. Friends may visit the funeral home after noon tomorrow.

Hospital Cook Ready To Retire, See Family

Chris Gerardo is taking it easy these days after 34 years of cooking.

Now 66, Gerardo retired last month as head chef at San Rafael General Hospital, a position he had held since 1939. He joined the staff of the hospital in 1937 as second cook after five years in the galley of Golden Gate ferry boats plying between Sausalito and San Francisco.

This summer Gerard plans to return to his native Kalibo, on Panay Island in the Philippines, to join his family.

He will be "both glad and sorry" to leave, he says. But in Kalibo there will be a big reunion with his wife Javita, their three children and 14 grandchildren, and his mother, who lives nearby.

Although he has seen very little of his family in recent years, Gerardo has sent all his children to college. His older daughter, Caridad, is a teacher; his son, Reynaldo, operates his own electronics business, and his younger daughter, Sally, who attended Dominican College for three years, also has her own business in Kalibo. His oldest grandson is a college graduate and his oldest granddaughter will receive her nursing degree this year.

Gerardo's successor as head chef at San Rafael General is Herbert Holzmann, formerly of Rubini's Restaurant in Fairfax. Still on the hospital staff as cooks are Chris' brother, Gorje Gerardo, and his cousin, Herman Macabales.

GEE, BATMAN, MAYBE THIS IS DRACULA

Batrick the Bat had a home for a short time yesterday in the office of the College of Marin newspaper, Tower Times. Then he pulled a variation on the old "biting the hand that feeds you" act.

The Tower Times staff, eager for feature material, encountered Batrick in responding to a report of a bat trapped in the college business office.

They took his picture, then decided to take him—back to the office as a mascot. They dubbed him Batrick. He fluttered about for five minutes, then napped in a cubbyhole near the editor's desk.

Batrick temporarily forgotten, the staff settled in for a day's work. Sophomore Lynn Gray, 22, of 9 Main Court, Fairfax, remembered him quickly though, when, while typing, Gray felt something nip the back of his neck.

The newspaper's mascot now resides at the Marin County health office, while being tested for rabies. Gray, who does not know if he was bitten or scratched, was advised to get a tetanus shot. The health department will let him know early next week about Batrick's health.

Hearing Set On Flood Plan Second Step

Marin County Supervisors will hold a hearing Monday evening on the second phase of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project—from Bon Air Bridge and perhaps within the Ross town limits.

The hearing will be at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center.

The Army Corps of Engineers earlier stated that the second phase of the project would stop at the town limits of Ross; but in a recent corps' edict, a ditch to Ross Creek or a flood wall along the southern limits of town was appended to the project.

Approval of the second phase has also become a condition for starting work on the downstream first phase.

Hub May Become Wired For Sound

San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce directors yesterday voted to investigate the possibility of setting up a loudspeaker system to pipe out music along San Anselmo Avenue in the downtown business district.

They also agreed to begin planning a luncheon for sometime in July, to which members of all service clubs in the Ross Valley would be invited.

Chamber President William A. Trewhella will be featured as citizen of the day on radio station KABL next Wednesday, announced Peter Edwards, chairman of the publicity committee.

School Tax Hike Likely In Mill Valley

A preliminary fiscal 1967 budget of $2,535,630 will be discussed by Mill Valley School District trustees at an 8 p.m. meeting Monday.

The proposed budget is $433,970 above the current year's budget of $2,101,660.

Tax rate, now $2.68 including override taxes, is tentatively proposed at $3.07 per $100 assessed valuation, according to Asst. Supt. Leo B. Edson.

Current breakdown on the tax rate is as follows: General operation, $1.44, 67 cents levied area-wide resulting from turndown of Tamalpais High School District unification; certificated employees retirement, .03; classified employees retirement, .01; retirement program, .008; community services, .049; state loan repayment, .245, education of physically handicapped, .005; education of mentally retarded, .024. Bond redemption tax is 17.5 cents.

Breakdown on the proposed 1967 tax is: General purpose, $1.58; area-wide tax, .67; override taxes, a total of 65 cents, and bond redemption, 17 cents.

This would put the part of the tax rate which can be limited by voters at $2.25 per $100, the maximum that can be levied without another election.

Included in the 1967 budget is a recommendation of 5 per cent increase in teachers' salaries, now ranging from $5,460 to $10,290, are proposed to be increased to a range of $5,775-$11,550. Also recommended by the salary schedule committee, headed by Howard Baumgarten, are a "sixth class" on the salary schedule, and sabbatical leaves.

Additional costs in the 1966-67 budget are estimated as follows: Pay increase for teachers, $61,140; pay increases for principals and assistants, $12,430; "sixth class" costs, $6,400; sabbaticals, $4,500; added salary scale ratio for principals and principal-director, $2,890; health and welfare benefits, $17,160; pay increase for classified employees, $10,750, and health and welfare benefits for classified employees, $4,560.

On Tour

Edward E. Tanner of 45 Hickory Avenue, Corte Madera, supervising transportation rate expert for the California Public Utilities Commission, is on a two-week tour of duty at the Navy's Transportation Management School, Naval Supply Center, Oakland. Tanner is a major in the Air Force Reserve.

San Rafael Couple To Guide Diving Trip

Leroy French, owner of the Bamboo Reef in San Rafael, will lead his wife and 16 other Marin County residents on a two-week underwater diving and film making expedition in the Bahama Islands beginning April 15.

Base camp for the group will be Freeport, Grand Bahama. They will travel from there by boat, diving off other islands in the area, French said.

WHAT IS IT? — The CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite yesterday broadcast this exclusive picture of a suspected unidentified flying object, taken by a police official on the farm of Frank Manner, at Dexter, Mich. (UPI Telephoto)

Sky Mystery Reports Multiply Across U.S.

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Air Force scientists who spend their time investigating reports of unidentified flying objects had their work cut out for them today.

Scores of persons, police and civilians, reported seeing the mysterious objects last night in widely scattered sections of the country.

A Bangor, Maine, man told authorities he fired his pistol at a glowing object—and hit it.

"I could hear the elderberry bushes scraping as the thing came toward me," said John King, 22. He said he fired four times and the object, he said it was about 60 feet long, zoomed skyward.

Police said King was visibly distraught when he related the incident to them.

The reports began a week ago in the Midwest, and from there have come the most numerous reports of sightings—more than 200 persons say they saw mysterious objects since Sunday. Four squad cars of deputies watched one for 45 minutes last night in the Ann Arbor, Mich. area.

Dr. H. Allen Hynek, a Northwestern University astrophysicist who is chief investigator for the Air Force's project Blue Book, is investigating the Michigan sighting reports. He said he expected to complete his investigation today, but would give no information how soon his report would be ready.

The mysterious night-flyers were spotted yesterday near Trinidad, Colo., not far from the buried $88 million North American Air Defense Command post. Louis di Palo, a local postman, said he watched three of the objects through binoculars.

As is usual in cases of unidentified flying object sightings, the Air Force said it saw nothing on its sophisticated radar.

Brown Discusses Photos In Court

SACRAMENTO (AP) — "The more light you can throw on things, the better it is," says Gov. Edmund G. Brown is endorsing experimentation with courtroom photography.

But, Brown told the professional journalism society Sigma Delta Chi yesterday, he won't submit the controversial subject to the lawmakers during the current special session.

Brown said if unobtrusive photography can be accomplished in the courtroom it should be permitted, but that he wouldn't mount a campaign this year against the California Judicial Council's rule against it.

White Parents Return Negro Boy To Agency

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —A 2-year-old Negro boy, whose adoptive parents—a white minister and his wife—surrendered him because of neighborhood harassment, today began a new life in a Negro foster home.

David, adopted a year ago by the Rev. and Mrs. Albert C. Cohen of Fullterton, Calif., was returned Thursday to the county Bureau of Adoptions. The bureau immediately placed the youngster in another home.

Offers to adopt the child already been received from both Negro and white families, officials reported.

"The boy was somewhat upset," said Walter Heath, director of the adoptions bureau. "I'm sure he doesn't realize entirely what was going on.

"We first want to see that he is adjusting to the loss of his parents—it's like they had been killed in an accident," Heath added. "When he has adjusted to this, we will try to place him in another home (for adoption)."

Morago (town in Contra Costa County) is the surname of Gabriel Morago, Spanish explorer. St. Mary's College, conducted by the Christian Brothers, is near Moraga.

Youngster Seeks Dog's Identity

Sammy Goodhope, 10, of 45 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera, has until Tuesday to find the black or dark grey poodle dog which fought with his collie on Tamal Vista Boulevard Sunday at 10 a.m.

Sammy was walking his dog on that street between the Madera Village apartments and Edgewater Inn motel when the collie and the unidentified poodle began to fight. When he tried to separate them, Sammy was bitten on the finger by one of the dogs.

Sammy's dog has been vaccinated for rabies, but doctors are concerned about the poodle.

Time Vault Tells Youth's Tastes

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Comic books, a portable television and a skateboard are among objects buried in a vault to be opened 100 years from now.

The time capsule was placed in the ground yesterday at the White Bluff Elementary School and the site marked with a marble slab.

Mrs. Margaret Sadler's sixth-grade class decided to show the children of 2066 what the youngsters of 1966 were like.

Manslaughter Verdict Returned

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Apartment house manager Wilbur D. Lovill, 34, will be sentenced in superior court April 14 on a manslaughter conviction in the shooting death of a 19-year-old youth last fall.

Lovill was charged with murformerly of San Rafael, last Oct. 17, but was found guilty yesterday of the lesser charge.

Police arrested Lovill after answering a "shots fired" call at his apartment building in Los Angeles. The officers said that when they arrived Riley staggered from the building and collapsed at their feet.

Police testified they found Lovill standing in a hallway holding a rifle.

Taken To Jail

David Grant Long, 24, of 221 Madrone Avenue, Larkspur, was booked by Corte Madera police into county jail early today on a Sausalito warrant charging hitchhiking and failure to appear in court.

Two Wheels Stolen

When John F. Sheets of 55 Woodland Avenue, Apt. 4, San Rafael, walked into his carport yesterday he found his auto neatly placed on wood blocks, with two front tires and wheels gone. He told San Rafael police the special tires and wire wheels were worth a total of $145.

Northeast Gets Light Rain, Snow

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Light rain and snow fell across wide areas of the Northeast today but skies cleared in most of the storm-stricken Plains and north central states.

The wet belt in the Northeast extended from the Great Lakes region and Ohio Valley into the Northern and Middle Atlantic Coast states. Heaviest precipitation was in New York State and New England. Rain mixed with snow fell in many sections but generally amounts were light.

The death-dealing snowstorm which slammed across the Plains and the north central states spread northeastward Thursday and more than a foot of snow fell at Marquette, Mich., making a covering of more than two feet on the ground. More than nine inches fell in sections of western Pennsylvania.

At least 35 deaths were attributed to the blizzard in the Plains and north central region, the second to hit some parts of the storm belt in March. Included were 21 in Nebraska, 7 in Minnesota, 3 in Iowa and 2 each in South Dakota and Wyoming.

Temperatures were zero and in the teens in snow-covered Minnesota but there was a slight warming trend in the Dakotas where the mercury reached the 20s.

Customers Get Gas, Steal $70 In Cash

Four men drove a truck into the San Rafael Mobile Service Station, 600 Fourth Street, about 10 p.m. yesterday, and left with $1.20 worth of gasoline and $70 in cash.

Attendant Peter L. Friis of 105 Ross Street, Apt. 7, San Rafael, said that while he was putting in gasoline and checking the oil, one man went into the office and took the money from an unlocked safe.

Myers Doubted Win In Case

Fairfax City Atty. Wallace S. Myers told the Fairfax City Council Tuesday night that he had doubts that he could win the case if the city halted construction of a house by Laster and Co. at 46 Taylor Drive and the company took it to court.

The company had a building permit, which the council had claimed was in violation of the city's zoning ordinance. After previously issuing a stop work order on construction, the council voted 3-2 Tuesday to allow construction to continue.

The Independent-Journal erroneously reported that Myers said he had no doubt that he could win the case if it went to court.

State Textbooks Costs Soaring

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Curriculum Commission will meet next week in Newport Beach to select new grade school textbooks, estimated to cost more than double the amount currently in the state budget.

Revised bids opened yesterday reduced the anticipated cost somewhat. But the Education Department still thinks the price will be more than $20 mil-Edmund G. Brown's budget request of $9.6 million.

Dr. Ronald .W Cox, associate superintendent of public instruction, said the bid revisions would cut at least 10 per cent off the original estimated cost of $23 million.

Selective Service Sets New Guidelines

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Army still hopes to avoid drafting college students, but it's going ahead with preparations for such a move just in case.

A Selective Service spokesman has put it succinctly: "We are preparing for the worst and hoping for the best."

Selective Service announced yesterday the latest step in those preparations. It issued guidelines to be used by local draft boards when they consider a student's class standing and deferment test score in determining deferment eligibility.

But students who lose their 2S deferments because of low class standing and below-passing deferment test scores may still have a chance to continue their schooling as long as the present draft situation lasts.

The Army's buildup for the Viet Nam war is about two-thirds complete, and monthly craft calls continue to drop.

The April call of 21,700 men was the lowest since last September. An upsurge in enlistments continues and may even increase now that Congress has approved educational and other benefits for GIs serving during the cold war.

The Selective Service System has estimated a student in good standing will probably continue to enjoy deferment if draft calls remain below 30,000 a month.

But despite this Selective Service still wants test scores it can keep on file for the future in case manpower needs change.

Grape Strikers Nearing Fresno

FRESNO (AP)—Striking grape pickers will reach Fresno tonight in their 300-mile protest march to California's capitol, in Sacramento. It will be a return visit.

This time they will arrive on foot whereas last night they came in cars for a rally in a Mexican-American motion picture house.

Conducted entirely in Spanish, since most of the 80 marchers are of Mexican ancestry, the mass meeting included hymns and Mexican revolutionary songs. Straw hats were passed and $250 collected for march expenses.

Texas Base To Train South Viet Pilots

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. (AP) — About 100 South Vietnamese will begin training as pilots at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., in April, the Air Force says.

RARE ART TREASURE

Horacio Macalpin, director of the Mexican government tourism department, examines a carved rock crystal skull found in British Honduras in 1927. The skull is being evaluated by Frank Dorland, Mill Valley art conservator, who hopes to place it in the new anthropological museum in Mexico City. Dorland says the skull is one of only three of its kind and was used by wise men who in ancient times believed they could pass on their knowledge and gain past knowledge by contemplation of the skull. He has been studying the skull for its owner, Anna Mitchell-Hedges, who resides in Europe.

NOW STUDENTS HAVE EATEN HARLAN HALL

The Harlan Hall Tower, sagging a bit, but 48 layers tall, took top honors yesterday in the College of Marin Giant Cake Contest.

The huge morsel was baked by the Tars, a student service club on campus. Also-rans were a cake with a broomstick attached, by the Block M Society, and a volcano cake, with smoke coming from the top, by the Geology Club.

Contest rules required that the cake be at least two feet high, "enjoyably edible," and decorated and completely frosted.

All the entries were eaten.

Long Vacations Plan Backfires

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The extended vacation plan has not created the jobs it was intended to says I.W. Abel, president of the United Steel Workers of America.

Abel told a convention it was expected that 25,000 new workers would be needed to take the place of workers on such vacations but that companies were working regular employes overtime instead of hiring replacement.

The plan gives senior employes a 13-week vacation every five years.

Gang Queen Findings Back Marinite's Idea

Death of Virginia Hill, onetime "gangland queen," in Austria was in all probability suicide, police at Salzburg, Austria, said today.

Police disclosed discovery of a farewell letter, the Associated Press reported from Salzburg.

Earlier, Salzburg authorities had said that Miss Hill died of poisoning but "suicide is highly improbable."

The suicide finding confirmed the opinion of Belvedere author Dean Jennings, who is writing a biography of the "sweetheart of the underworld." He declared on learning of the death yesterday that Miss Hill probably killed herself because of despondency.

"I've known for a long time that she'd been in a tremendously despondent mood," said Jennings at his home at 74 San Rafael Avenue.

Virginia was found dead near Salzburg yesterday. Prof. Joseph Holzer of Innsbruck performed a post-mortem examination today and was to make a further test to determine what poison killed her, the Associated Press reported. The additional tests may take several weeks.

Miss Hill leaped into national notice in 1947 when gangster Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel was found murdered in her Beverly Hills home. She was in the headlines again in 1951 when she testified before the Kefauver crime investigation committee, and again in 1954 when she was indicted by a federal grand jury in Los Angeles on a charge of evading $80,180 in income tax payments.

Jennings said he is "about one year and half way" through a book about her and Siegel. He said she was Siegel's wife, but kept it secret so his two daughters by a former marriage could share his estate.

Born in the Alabama hills, she left home at 17, became a "gang moll," and later cut a high-living swath in Hollywood posing as an heiress, Jennings related.

After Siegel's death, she married Hermann (Hans) Hauser, a ski instructor. He was subsequently deported. She followed him to Austria when indicted on the income tax charge in 1954. They had not been getting along well, Jennings claimed.

Champion Kidnap Sentence Stalled

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sentencing for Wilfred Marion Gray, convicted kidnaper of State Finance Director Hale Champion, was postponed today because the defendant said he wasn't sure a lawyer was representing him while he underwent examinations.

U.S. Dist. Judge Thomas J. MacBride set sentencing for March 30.

Gray, 30, and Carl Cletus Bowles, 24, pleaded guilty to the kidnaping of Champion, his wife and baby daughter last July. Bowles was sentenced to life in prison but Gray was ordered to undergo a 90-day psychiatric and medical examination before final sentencing.

Budget Votes Squeeze Two Great Society Propositions

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the first nonmilitary money bill of 1966, the House Appropriations Committee put the brakes today on two of the administration's new domestic programs — rent subsidies and the Teachers Corps.

The committee's action on a $2,564,872,569 appropriation bill sent to the House floor for a vote next Tuesday confirmed the general belief on Capitol Hill that many "Great Society" programs may be in for trouble this year when it comes to getting money to finance them.

Here is what the committee did on the two programs:

Rent subsidies, Johnson asked $30 million in contract authority, the committee voted $12 million.

Teachers Corps, Johnson asked $13.2 million, the committee approved $10 million.

Most of the money is for use during the remaining months of the fiscal year ending June 30 and would supplement about $112.8 billion appropriated last year for general government operating expenses.

The total recommended is $248,679,600 less than the President requested. About $242 million of this reduction was due to a bookkeeping transaction.

The rent program is designed to help persons with low incomes obtain better housing in projects built by nonprofit groups by having the government pay the landlord the difference between 25 per cent of the tenant's salary and the normal rent.

The Teachers Corps program was set up to provide additional teachers for school districts with large numbers of poor families.

Mrs. Brown Planning Beautification Drive

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Using President Johnson's campaign for a more beautiful country as a springboard, Gov. Edmund G. Brown's Committee on California Beauty will tour the state in May.

Governor Brown's wife, Bernice, who heads the 15-member group, said yesterday the tour will kick off "a grass roots beauty campaign that will reach every community ..."

Killion Says Hand Welcomed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Shipping magnate George L. Killion said today that Gov. Brown had encouraged Lloyd N. Hand to become a candidate for lieutenant governor.

"And so did I," the San Francisco Democratic Party leader added.

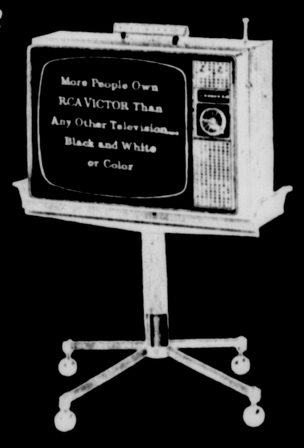

The governor has denied that he urged the former U.S. chief of protocol to enter the Democratic primary. Brown, however, admitted that he had done nothing to dissuade Hand, either.

Bond Meeting Is Poorly Attended

Only 15 people showed up last night at Point Reyes Station for a public meeting to start off the election campaign for approval of $246,000 worth of school construction bonds. The election will be April 19.

Supt. Howard F. Brose of West Marin School District emphasized the money was badly needed because enrollment in the district has risen to 307. Funds would be used for three classrooms, a library, a kindergarten and reconstruction of the administration building, maintenance shop and bus shelter.

Brose said the bonds would not increase taxes. Instead, repayment of a state loan would be delayed while bonds were retired.

Another public meeting on the bonds is set for Wednesday at the Inverness School at 8 p.m.

Stephen L. Mock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Mock of 88 Walnut Avenue, Corte Madera, a sophomore at University of California at Davis, was awarded an "excellent" rating for expository speaking during a forensics tournament at San Francisco State College last Friday and Saturday.

Courthouse Cornerstone Yields Relics

FRESNO (AP) — Workmen dismantling the old Fresno County Courthouse found the building's cornerstone this week and, inside it, a sealed copper box containing well - preserved records of 1874.

For years, the cornerstone's precise location was unknown to county officials. A workman found the granite block embedded in brick in the building's southeast corner.

The box contained:

A variety of neatly-folded newspapers, including two issues of the Expositor published in Millerton, copies of the San Francisco Daily Examinder, Oakland Daily News, Sacramento Daily Record, and the Daily Alta California, all October, 1874, editions.

— Gold coins in a leather pouch.

A Bible dated 1849.

Copies of the Fort Barbour Indian Treaty of peace of 1851, the muster roll of the Mariposa Battalion, and historical notes.

Maps, a county financial report, and documents describing county laws and county officers.

The cornerstone was laid on Oct. 8, 1874.

Party Control Not His Aim

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., said this week that he did not believe Lloyd Hand's entry into California politics represented an attempt by President Johnson to take control of the California Democratic Party.

Hand, 37-year-old former U.S. chief of protocol and a longtime associate of Johnson announced Tuesday hat he would seek the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Murphy said at a news conference in his office that Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty and Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh were more likely to be behind hand's candidacy than the President.

Missile, Chaser Sent Up From Vandenberg

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) —A Titan 2 intercontinental ballistic missile and a Nike-Javelin combination were launched successfully within seconds of each other today down the Western Test Range.

An Air Force spokesman said preliminary reports indicated that the missile was on course for a preselected target area in the Pacific.

The name Madera means wood,' timber. County so named because it was the end of a 63-mile flume carrying lumber from Soquel Basin in the Sierra sugar pine forests.

Los Banos means the baths. In early days Padre Felipe Arroyo de la Cuesta of Mission San Juan Bautista used to refresh himself, when on missionary trips to the San Joaquin Valley, in the pools of Los Banos Creek and hence, they were called "Los Banos del Padre Arroyo."

The coat costume

on parade for Easter,
a total concept inspired by Paris

It all started in Paris, where they updated the suit to the more contemporary coat and dress combination—now it's the most important Spring fashion look. Here are two from the Big E selection: From our Dress Circle, the new all-white look in textured cotton with a military air. Note epaulets, shiny brass buttons. Underneath a skimmery body-glider dress. 10 to 16, $60

From Collegienne, a far Eastern interpretation in rayon-acetate "Juttah," one of Spring's most exciting new textured fabrics. Styled with standup collar, fitted silhouette. Underneath a skimmer with subtle dirndl skirt. Lime or aqua. Jr. petites, 3-13.

Patrick Says He Will Try, And Try Again

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — William Penn Patrick says he would run for the U.S. Senate in 1968 if he fails in his bid to win the Republican nomination for governor this year.

He admitted at a news conference the odds were "way out." against him in his campaign for governor.

But the San Rafael cosmetics manufacturer told newsmen yesterday: "I can tell you now I'll be back two years from now and four years from now until I achieve my objective."

He said he would seek the Senate seat held by Sen. Thomas M. Kuchel, R-Calif., because the GOP Senate whip "has reached the point where he should be replaced."

Patrick said Kuchel "is not a representative of Republican ideas."

Patrick said he had spent $300,000 of his own money so far in his campaign. He said he expected to spend at least $350,000 more before the June primary.

He said he had received only $10,000 in contribution from others toward his campaign.

"If I had any faith in those polls it certainly would tell me to stop spending money," he said.

But Patrick said he did not believe in the accuracy of the polls which show him running far behind actor Ronald Reagan and former San Francisco mayor George Christopher.

Two Easter Seal Benefits Slated

Two events in Marin County this weekend will benefit the Easter Seal Society.

More than 70 girls, members of Job's Daughters and Rainbow Girls, will sell paper lillies, made by handicapped persons, throughout the county tomorrow. Proceeds will aid the 1966 Easter Seal drive.

The Tomales Druids will hold their annual pancake and sausage feed from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Tomales town hall. Funds raised will go to the society to help run its weekly adult education program for the handicapped.

AERIAL CONFERENCES

President's Plane Flying Auditorium

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's luxury airplane has been refitted so he can talk face to face with more guests on each flight and, if he chooses, hold aerial news conferences.

The most striking features of the renovated Boeing 707 transport are folding interior walls and built-in microphones and loudspeakers so the President can use the plane as a flying auditorium or conference room.

Johnson made his first flight aboard the revamped Air Force One when he went to New York Wednesday to attend funeral services for the wife of Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y. On that trip he tried out some of the plane's new facilities.

Unlike commercial airliners, Johnson's plane now has a main passenger cabin in which all seats face the tail. Although experts say this arrangement provides greater safety in a crash landing, this was not the reason for reversing the seats.

The purpose was to permit passengers to face the presidential suite, located just to the rear of the wings.

This looking - backward posture is a key element in the new design of the plane because the wall between the passenger compartment and Johnson's combination office-lounge can be opened.

Under the new arrangement, Johnson can sit at his kidney-shaped desk, with microphone in front of him, and talk directly to a plane load of guests.

New electronic facilities enable passengers to address the President directly, too, and their words are heard throughout the aircraft which can carry about 80 passengers.

In this fashion, Johnson could use his intercontinental jet for aerial news conferences.

The President last year invited the White House press corps to fly with him on several occasions. He once attempted an en route news conference but lack of microphones and loudspeakers hampered the effort. This experience apparently prompted installation of the new supplement.

Another feature of the refitted plane is a wooden folding wall separating the office-lounge from Johnson's bedroom.

It was Johnson's own idea to install a folding partition between the two rooms. He reasoned that, since the bedroom is used only occasionally, it often represented wasted space that could be used to entertain more guests in the privacy of his personal quarters were there some way to devise an opening to the office-lounge. The result is a new wall of natural-finish wood slats that can be rolled aside much like the top of an old-fashioned rolltop desk.

The cost of the various renovations has not been disclosed.

Schools Aid Housing

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Half of a million-dollar fund for development of low-rental housing and other improvements here will be provided by Harvard University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Trustees Ask Federal Cash For Science

The Larkspur School District board last night agreed to apply for $12,000 in National Defense Education Act funds to be spent with matching district funds to supply seventh grade classrooms at Neil Cummins and Henry C. Hall schools with science and mathematics equipment.

Trustees authorized inclusion of $12,000 of district funds in the temporary budget to match the federal funds. They also authorized spending $1,500 next year to continue district use of the data processing center at College of Marin for grading objective tests.

Supt. Milton S. Cohen told the board that objective, machine-graded tests save teachers time by taking from them the onus of grading the examinations and by providing quick analysis of any objective test.

Trustees also met in closed session to evaluate district personnel, Cohen said.

Fire Board Gets Report On Year

Tamalpais Fire Chief Herbert Owen reported to the Tamalpais Fire Protection District last night that firemen answered 280 calls last year.

Owen reported 30 grass and brush fires, 22 resuscitation calls, seven structural fires, four furniture fires, and various other calls.

Two financing consultants from Stone and Youngberg, San Francsico, explained various procedures by which the district may finance contemplated improvements including a new firehouse in Tamalpais Valley, new water mains and hydrants. Primary emphasis was given to general obligation bonds, reported commisison Chairman Carl H. Modell. No action was taken.

Lynch Rules Out Banker's Fees

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—It's a crime for a bank director to accept loan brokers' fees for negotiating a loan with his own bank, Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch ruled today.

However, it is not illegal for a director to accept a bona fide sales commission where the transaction involves a loan from his bank, provided the payment is for his services in the ordinary course of his independent business.

The opinion was given in answer to a question asked by John A. O'Kane, state superintendent of banks.

O'Kane said the question had nothing to do with the defunct San Francisco National Bank failre.

Ferryboat Revival Study Fund Sought

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—City Planning commissioners are considering whether to spend $50,000 for a survey of the feasibility of resuming ferryboat service to Marin County.

They voted yesterday to have their staff determine whether it is possible to obtain the $50,000 needed for such a survey.

Commissioner O. W. Willard told a commission meeting that he believed huge, 20-knot boats would be better and cheaper than another deck on Golden Gate Bridge.

He said the boats could carry 3,000 passengers the 9½ miles from the Ferry Building to Marin City in 23 minutes.

Thomas Storer, a Marin County supervisor, also opposed a bridge expansion. "I see San Francisco becoming one gigantic parking lot and freeways, with a few high - rises for the few people who continued to live there and smog as bad as it is in Los Angeles. That's just barbaric and uncivilized," he said.

Norman Raab, a consultant for Tudor Engineering Co., was telling bridge directors, meanwhile, that a second deck for cars was feasible, could be opened in five years and would cost about $35 million.

Benicia was named in honor of Francisca Benicia, wife of Gen. Mariano G. Vallejo.

GOP Assembly Hears McInnis

John F. McInnis, former mayor of San Rafael who hopes to succeed Byron W. Leydecker on the County Board of Supervisors, spoke last night to about 45 members of the Marin County Coordinating Republican Assembly at the Civic Center.

McInnis emphasized that the post he seeks is non-partisan, and he is not running on either party ticket.

He called for improvements in the county's fiscal policies and coordination among county departments.

Judge Imposes Jail Sentence On Flying Father

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A janitor who abandoned one of his four children last November when he flew to Europe, was sentenced yesterday to a year in the San Mateo County Jail.

Francisco Espinoza pleaded guilty before Municipal Court Judge W. Howard Hartley. Six months of the sentence was suspended, and Espinoza was placed on five years probration providing he undergoes psychiatric care.

His wife Margaret, 27, received the same sentence three weeks ago.

The couple left their son Adam, 6, alone in South San Francisco, where police found him wandering Nov. 10, and flew to Vienna with their three other children.

ANNIVERSARY PLANS

College Prepares Festival In May

The College of Marin is preparing to commemorate the 40th anniversary of its founding.

Tentative plans for the 40th anniversary celebration were persented to the Marin Junior College District board last night by Irwin P. Diamond, dean of students.

The plan is to have the commemoratin during the week of May 1-7, including dedication of the college center.

Diamond listed the tentative schedule as follows: May 1, Mayin Youth Symphony performance in the gymnasium; May 6, dedication of the college center, and May 7, madrigal singers in Olney Hall.

A student committee also will schedule events in the center and may have a dinner at the center for students, alumni and residents prior to the dedication.

Budget Pinch May Hit Cultural Programming

Marin Junior College District trustees took another look at a tentative $4,072,628 budget last night and expressed concern at dwindling reserves.

"We've got to increase the reserve to take care of contintencies," said Trustee Kent O. Seymour.

The tentative budget indicates expenses would run about $42,878 more than income.

When Roy G. Mikalson, dean of adult education, recommended a concert and lecture budget of $18,000 for the 1966-67 season, he ran into some stiff questioning.

On attendance, Mikalson said that so far this season 7,500 persons have attended programs.

Trustee Robert E. Rogers said he understood a prime purpose of the programs was to give students "an opportunity to broaden their horizons." Yet, he said, he has not noticed many students in audiences.

Mikalson said the concert and lecture programs are basically a community service.

The recommended budget of $18,000 is $3,000 higher than this year's. Trustees suggested charging admission to more events.

Marin Junior College District Board Also:

1. Approved hiring Murray and McCormick of Novato, consulting civil engineers, to make a topographical study of the north campus site near Novato, to cost not more than $10,546 and be completed in two months.

2. Approved addition of three teachers and two counselors for the 1966-67 school year, making a total of 19 new teaching positions authorized.

3. Accepted the resignation of Mrs. Loretta Nedrow, instructor in business education, effective June 30.

4. Granted Mrs. Janet Blevins, library clerk, maternity leave, July 1 to Oct. 15.

5. Hired Milton G. Moss as building inspector at $900 a month.

6. Hired Mrs. Sheila Krohn as secretary for the nursing program at $416 a month, and Mrs. Mary Lou Travis as library clerk, at $351.

7. Approved a summer school program of 54 classes in the morning, three in the afternoon and 20 in the evening, an overall increase of 14 as compared to last summer.

8. Heard from Joseph E. Berruezo, assistant dean of vocational and technical education, that 550 persons started manpower Development and Training Act courses and 414 completed them.

9. Received a report that 26 of the 36 graduates of the vocational nursing course are employed, most of them in Marin, and two others expect to be employed soon.

Going-Away Fete For Chief Huck

Sausalito police department employees and their wives will give a going-away party for Police Chief Kenneth H. Huck at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the home of police clerk Bonnie Harrington in Corte Madera, Sgt. Stanley Kelly announced today.

Huck, who has been chief since March 1, 1964, has taken a job as the first police chief of Union City, Alameda County. His last day of duty is today.

Huck's new force will include a lieutenant, sergeant, nine patrolmen and a clerk. The Sausalito city council has named Lt. Theodore C. Zink as acting chief pending processing of applications for the permanent job.

Booked For Theft

Hilario Ferreira, 27, and Meguel Sanchez, 23, both of San Francisco, were booked in county jail by Corte Madera police on charges of grand theft yesterday after Donald J. Guerra, security officer at Montgomery Ward and Co., made a citizen's arrest charging them with stealing three men's suits worth $205.

Tuberculin Test: Only Two React

Two reactors were found yesterday among the 341 pupils tuberculin tested at Our Lady of Loretto Parochial School in Novato.

Completed tests represent 83 per cent of the total enrollment of 389. An effort was being made by the school nurse, Mrs. Marie Partridge, to have tests of 16 absentees by private physicians.

The positive rate represented by the two reactors is .5 of one per cent, half of the county-wide average found by the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Assn. in other school tests.

The tests were given Monday by volunteer physicians, Dr. Frederick Newirth and Dr. Patricia Hallinan.

Sanitation Board Sets Bid Opening

The San Rafael Sanitation District Board yesterday approved plans and specifications for a chlorination station at the Loch Lomond pumping station and an air gap system at the main treatment plant.

District directors called for bids on the two projects to be opened on April 14.

The board approved the application of William H. McDevitt and Herbert A. Crocker for annexation of a two-acre parcel near Montecito Road to the district.

The San Rafael Sanitation District Board also:

1. Approved purchase of two time elapse meters and two solenoid valves for the Glenwood lift station at cost of $140.

2. Postponed a decision on purchase of a portable steam cleaning unit, estimated to cost $2,400, until it can be determined whether a unit owned by the City of San Rafael can be used.

3. Cancelled the regularly scheduled meeting of April 7 and adjourned until 5 p.m. April 14.

Gaviota means sea gull. The town of Gaviota was so named because a sea gull was killed there by a soldier.

COLLEGE TEACHERS WIN PAY INCREASE

Board's 4-1 Vote Grants $500 Blanket Hike, Health Insurance, Despite Deficit Budget

By FRANK FARRARA

Marin Junior College District trustees last night granted the College of Marin faculty a $500 across-the-board pay increase for the 1966-67 school year.

They also approved changes in the salary schedule which will bring additional pay to teachers, and agreed to pay health insurance premiums for all fulltime employees of the college.

The salary session was marked by harmony, in contrast to last June's salary battle when faculty representatives clashed sharply with Collete President Stephen E. Epler.

Trustees approved the new schedule by a 4-1 vote, with Trustee Kent O. Seymour dissenting.

The salary decision came after the board had discussed a tentative budget of $4,072,628, which indicated a deficit of $42,878.

Seymour urged that the board give further review to the salary proposals. He moved that a decision be postponed until the April 14 meeting, but failed to get a second.

He said the board is faced with a budget "that is unbalanced" and has yet to make any decision on salaries for administrators and non-teaching personnel.

"Until we bring the budget into balance, I don't see how you can justify making the blanket increase that has been presented," Seymour said.

Seymour claimed that the faculty got "an 11 per cent increase last year, and this is an 11 per cent increase, making 22 per cent in two years."

Epler estimated the changes would cost $101,231 if the college has a fulltime teaching staff of 130. This represents an 8.28 per cent increase in salary costs, but regular annual increments would cost another $29,953, bringing the total boots to 11.14 per cent.

Epler pointed out that the $500 across-the-board increase means that the lower paid instructors will receive a higher per centage increase than those at the top end of the scale.

In a breakdown of costs, Epler said insurance benefits for teachers will cost $15,273, a 1.20 per cent increase; the $500 raise, $65,000, a 5.13 per cent increase and the changes in the salary schedule, $21,708, a 2.02 per cent increase.

The changes in the salary schedule include rounding off the schedule steps to the nearest $100 (for example changing $6,480 to $6,500).

The current salary schedule of $6,480 to $12,604 will be increased to $7,000 to $12,980.

Epler said the average salary at the college this year has been $9,755, which is below the state average for junior colleges. Under the new schedule, he estimates the average salary would be $10,500, which he feels will be about the state average during the 1966-67 school year.

The salary proposals were recommendad by Epler. Michael P. Hansen, chairman of the faculty salary committee, said the faculty committee was in full support of the recommendations.

After Seymour's objections, Trustee Robert E. Rogers said he too was concerned about the budget, but felt "we'd be derelict if we don't go along with the president's recommendation."

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Deedy, board chairman, said the salary discussions this year have "resolved some of the key areas of concern, irritation and conflict we've had in the past."

The new schedule also permits four instead of three sabbatical leaves a year, and grants incoming teachers up to seven years of credit as compared to five years now. It raises additional pay for division chairmen from $600 to $1,200 a year and for departments heads from $200 to $400.

San Bernardino County is the largest county in the United States with a total area of 20,125 square miles.

Freeway Halt Suggested By 'Caldepop'

The California Depopulation Commission would like an indefinite moratorium on building freeways, and has its own idea of how to bring it about.

The idea is simple: leave the car in the garage.

D. C. Camp of Ross, who runs "Caldepop" through a post office box, sees halting freeway construction as a way of preventing California population increase—which is "Caldepop's" prime objective.

"If we don't spend today's money to accommodate tomorrow's incoming hordes, the hordes may not be so large," he said.

By curtailing driving, he observed, auto owners would cut down the state's gasoline tax revenue. Then there wouldn't be money to build freeways.

"Some people would be hurt; just as many are hurt every time a freeway is built," Camp declared in behalf of Caldepop. "On the other hand, public transportation would be improved and strengthened, smog would be reduced, and some people might even learn to walk again."

Now Agena's Too Far Up, NASA Says

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) —Space scientists have located a "pretty serious" problem in the Agena target satellite of last week's hard-luck Gemini 8 flight.

The National Aeronautics and Space Adminitsration (NASA) said the trouble apparently in a yaw hydraulics system, sent the docking satellite into a series of unexpectedly high orbits.

John Hodge, Gemini 8 flight director, said experts still have not isolated the short circuit that caused a control jet on the Gemini spaceship to stick open, forcing astronauts Neil Armstrong and David Scott to an early landing in the western Pacific March 16.

In any event, both troubles will have to be solved before NASA will let astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan fly Gemini 9 on much the same type mission, now scheduled for May.

Armstrong and Scott landed after 10 hours and 42 minutes of their scheduled three-day flight. But the Agena continues to orbit about 253 miles above earth.

Lockheed Aircraft Co., manufacturer of the Agena, has the yaw difficulty "under intensive investigation," said Melvin Brooks, Agena systems engineer.

Rod, Gun Club Cited For Smog

Inspectors from the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District found only one illegal source of smog in Marin County during February. It was the Marin Rod and Gun Club at Point San Quentin.

The club was cited Feb. 26 because it had an incinerator, an old 50-gallon oil drum, for burning trash. Such incinerators, with permits, are allowed for private homes, but not for larger buildings.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

New Restaurant Due In Sausalito; Round House Has View And Food

There should be another restaurant opening early next month—this one in Sausalito. Date now scheduled is April 5.

This will be called Patty's and is to be located at 721 Bridgeway, formerly operated as Cafe Lito until its closure the first of this month. Remodeling is in progress, with the planned decor to be "turn of the century." New owners are a group of San Francisco and East Bay restaurant men with other similar enterprises. Lease transaction was handled by Sam Hock of Langsam Realty.

Patty's will have folding glass doors that open across the front to be replaced by an "air curtain" such as Harrah's has in Reno. Sandwiches, salads and take-out food will be served. Present timetable calls for it to be open seven days a week from morn to evening.

Robert Martin, recently moved from Fremont to Sausalito, will be the manager.

THERE ARE THOUSANDS of Marin people who cross the Golden Gate Bridge daily, and I daresay only a fraction of them, on slowing down at the toll plaza, remember that on the San Francisco side of the stiles they can make a quick turn and find an interesting place to eat, Round House Restaurant.

It's been there for years, and since last December has had a new lease on life—under the lease of the Union News Co., a division of American News Co., that operates a number of restaurants elsewhere.

Views at the Round House is one of those outlooks ideally suited for tourists seeing the bridge and the bay for the first time. There are few other places where it is so impressive. And it's unfortunate that so many of us who live in this area are so blase about such viewsites on one hand that we can't fully appreciate them without reaching for a cocktail with the other.

But Round House is no lounge—just a nice place for breakfast, lunch or short orders at counter or tables — open daily from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Breakfast at all hours, a la carte and fountain service.

I'm told Union News is now considering extending the evening hours in the hope of attracting Marinites on their way home from the theaters for a late snack. This may happen soon.

SOME FOOD CHANGES at Peacock Gap Country Club are bound to be made with the advent of two new members to the dining room and kitchen staff. Manager Gene Wallace informs me he's acquired John Kornher as maitre d' and I'm sure there are still some Marinites around who will remember him as the first maitre d' at Rickey Rancho Rafael. That must have been about seven years ago. After leaving the Rancho, John spent some time at the Rickey-Hilton on the peninsula. He's a resident of Rohnert Park in Sonoma County, by the way. A good food man. I learned things from him.

And on the galley side of the swinging doors, Jim Davidson is new boss. If there should be a wee bit o' temperament in this Scot, I'm sure Gene will know how to handle him with a few toots from his bagpipes. Aye, there's bound to be some changes at Peacock Gap. Daily specials on the lunch have already started and there's soon to be a new catering menu and another new one for dinners Saturday and Sunday nights—braw, bricht and moonlicht.

THERE ARE EIGHT delightful ways of serving chicken on Cherish Inn's latest menu, a like number of beef dishes and steaks, seven veal preparations and 10 seafood selections. Plus lamb, turkey, duck, pastes and other dishes.

All set before you, according to the recipes of eight different countries.

Admittedly, the ways of preparing so many specialized offerings at the Town and Country Village dinery are different from those of most restaurants, and one day this should make an interesting and complete story in itself. Such processes may never be revealed in their entirety, for there are always food agents on the prowl to shake loose the closely guarded secrets developed from long research at Cherish Inn kitchens.

There is no single phrase I know to describe the establishment's cooking methods. "Frozen food" has been suggested, but that's misleading. Frozen foods are used to some extent these days in most restaurants, usually with far less attention to technical requirements.

And sadly enough, the average layman's uninstructed opinion is that it's a lazy way to prepare food. Derived from TV dinners, no doubt. Nothing could be further from the truth in Cherish Inn's case. Fact is, its kitchens in Strawberry and San Francisco probably contain more specialized equipment and employ more qualified chefs and cooks than any food place short of a processing plant. And I'm sure not even the great Brillat-Savarin exercised more finesse and care in his cooking—different though it was from present day methods.

According to manager Bob Zegura, the months Cherish Inn's opening have brought many repeat customers, and from what I've been able to observe, most times it's well patronized. No reason it shouldn't be. A very delightful place to dine.

THERE'S A NEW MENU at La Petite Auberge, San Rafael that includes all the former favorites—and some additions that are bound to be equally popular.

In the seafood category, abalone dore meuniere is new, and in the meat department try either the broiled noisettes of lamb with a bearnaise sauce or the broiled medallion of veal.

Among the specials you'll find ham Tetrazzini; veal kidney are now served with a wine sauce—and another newcomer is deboned breast of duck, served with wild rice.

A San Rafael merchant was telling me the other day that he is continually asked by out-of-towners the way to La Petite Auberge. Aren's you lucky you already know?

ENTERTAINMENT at Rancho Rafael, Ignacio these days suggests tropical lagoons, trade winds, swaying palms and swaying hula skirts. But sometimes the tempo picks up to a typhoon. All provided by Hawaiian song stylists, guitarist and comedienne Kukhie Kuhns; a combo knows as the Cocoanuts — and Gail O'Leary, swinging through her Hawaiian and Tahitian dances. She's noted for these. Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

NEXT WEDNESDAY NIGHT the San Francisco and Marin County chapters of "Meals for Millions" will take over the entire Ark facilities at Waldo Point for a special party. I understand their affairs are terrific, and while it's a "closed party," with dinner, dancing and entertainment, tickets can be had by writing Bill Thompson at Box 262, San Rafael.

EXTENDED through the rest of this month is the "two-for-one" dinner offer of the Gold Nugget in the middle of the San Rafael Miracle Mile. Since its is valid Mondays through Thursdays after 4 p.m., this means it will be available four days next week. I'm told that a children's Easter surprise offer will be made after the first of the month.

A 24-HOUR SCHEDULE has been adopted by Pat and Joe's Restaurant, Mill Valley, replacing the former 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. timetable. Dinners are being served to 11 p.m. and short orders around the clock.

AT RANCHO RAFAEL. Song stylist Kukhie Kuhns is part of Hawaiian entertainment.

ONE WAY TO CLEAN A FLOOR

The Terra Linda High School gymnasium gets cleaner, students' trousers get dirtier and competition gets stiffer during finals of the black bottom contest. The game gets its name from the effect is has on contestant's trousers. Main object, however, is not to clean the floor but to leg-push the ball to one end of the gym against the efforts of the other team which is trying to push the ball to the other. In this final contest yesterday, the juniors showed they had the most push, beating the sophomores, hands (and bottoms) down.

Commute Rate Rise Is Eyed For July

There's a good possibility that Golden Gate Bridge commute rates may go up during the fiscal year that starts in July.

This was indicated today at a meeting of Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors.

Lowell Edington, director from Napa, posed the possibility during a meeting of the bridge finance committee.

He suggested that the proposed second deck, estimated to cost between $30 million and $50 million, should be financed at least partially on a pay-as-you-go plan.

Edington noted that by the time the district retires the original $35 million bonds floated 40 years ago, it will have paid out $38 million in interest.

"We should start planning for a revision in the commute rates," said Edington.

At his suggestion, the directors decided to print the new commute books for the 1966-67 fiscal year without putting the price on the cover, in case the price is raised during the year.

No mention was made of a change in the casual toll of 25 cents per crossing.

Special Election For Remainder Of Baldwin Term

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A special election to fill the seat vacated by the death of Rep. John F. Baldwin, R-Martinez, will be held in Contra Costa County at the same time as the June 7 primary, Gov. Brown announced today.

The winner of the special election would serve until the beginning of the new Congressional term next January.

Thus if the special election winner was the same as the general election winner, he would take his new seat in January with more seniority than other freshmen congressmen.

A runoff will be held July 5 if no one gets a majority.

Mother Hospitalized After Little Boy Dies

SAN MATEO (AP)—A Pacifica mother was in San Mateo County Hospital's psychiatric ward today after the apparently accidental fatal shooting of her 2-year-old son.

Mrs. Marjorie Brown, wife of a highway patrolman, reported the boy, David's death to police at 5 p.m. yesterday. He had been shot in the stomach with a deer rifle.

Boston Police Book Anti-Viets At Base

BOSTON (UPI) — Eleven anti-Viet Nam war demonstrators including two girls were arrested in front of the Boston Army Base today after one ripped up his draft card.

The demonstrators were charged with obstructing free traffic.

Anti-Viet Faction To March Again

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) —A three-day nationwide series of rallies, teach-ins and street demonstrations against U.S. involvement in the war in Viet Nam gets under way today.

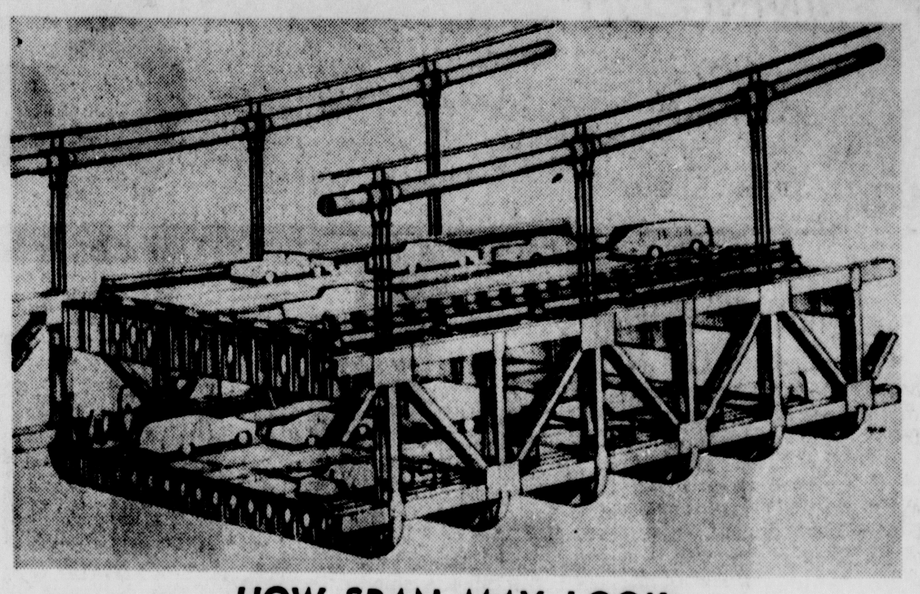

Organizers said anti-war activities would extend to 40 foreign countries on both sides of the Iron Curtain and to 120 U.S. cities. The protest was planned to coincide with the anniversary of the first teach-in against the war, held at the University of Michigan last year.

The protests, organized by the National Coordinating Committee to end the war in Viet Nam, will be patterned after those of last October, which triggered counter-protests and an outpouring of support for administration policies.

Indonesia Kicks Out Red Chinese Newsmen

JAKARTA (UPI) —Indonesia's military government today closed the offices of the Communist New China News Agency and ordered the Red Chinese newsmen out of the country. Chinese diplomats and a number of businessmen already had left.

Jakarta itself was tense and all indications were that a tremendous power struggle was going on behind the scenes. President Sukarno, once elected president for life, was still trying to regain power, but diplomats felt he was on his way out.

HOW SPAN MAY LOOK

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors yesterday were shown this Tudor Engineering Co. concept of how the span would look after improvements which engineers said could do away with necessity for any new Marin-to-San Francisco crossing for nearly 20 years. The top deck, with sidewalks removed, would feature five, widened southbound lanes; a newly-built lower deck would have five Marin-bound lanes, plus sidewalks with special anti-suicide fences. Tiburon City Books Audit Issue Warms Up Campaigns For Council

A long-delayed audit of Tiburon's books for the first year of its operation as a city promises to be a hot issue in the campaign for the April 12 city council election.

Incumbents Fred C. Hannahs and Jacqueline A. Parnell and aspirant Alfred J. Azevedo, running as a team in an attempt to unseat Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood in her re-election bid, brought up the audit during a Radio KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" yesterday. More on it is sure to be heard as the campaign progresses.

The audit was prepared by Dalton, Grauper and Barber, San Rafael accounting firm, over the objections of Tiburon City Mgr. Lawrence A. Rose, who said George Bitter, who keeps the city's books, had done his own audit.

It covers the fiscal year's operations which ended June 30 of last year. But it was not ordered until Nov. 22 (by 4-1 vote of the city council, with John S. Hoffmire dissenting) and not delivered until this week.

Its figures vary considerably from those given by Rose in his financial report covering the same period.

The city is not short any money. In fact, the audit shows $2,692 more on hand at the end of the fiscal year than Rose's figures. Largely because of difference in method of crediting gasoline tax funds, it shows a year-end balance of $9,574, whereas Rose showed only $6,882.

In some accounts, however, the audit shows greater expenditures than Rose had reported.

The difference stems from different accounting methods. Rose's figures were based on "cash flow" accounting as done on the city's books by Bitter. Dalton, Graupner and Barber used the "accrual" method, by which an expenditure is charged as soon as authorized, not waiting until the money is paid out.

The result, says Rose, is misleading.

Rose claims the city's building permits and business license fees were not audited. These are areas where "anyone who is not checked could just sell a license or a permit and pocket the fee," he asserted.

He claimed the auditors "did a bad job" on the Tiburon books.

Robert Soderblom of the auditing firm was equally harsh on the Rose-Bitter bookkeeping. He said Rose's financial statement, published following the end of the fiscal year, could not be recognized as "any kind of financial picture of the city." He described it as "simply a list of cash receipts and disbursements—nothing else."

As to the business licenses and building permit fees, he snuffed, "Of course we checked them."

The lateness of the audit has been criticized also by Hannahs, Azevedo and Mrs. Parnell.

Rose insists that a city is not required to have an annual audit.

Adding its bit to the dispute is the fact that Dalton, Graupner and Barber were hired to set up the accounting system for Tiburon when it was incorporated. The system they set up was abandoned by Bitter, who put in his own system when hired to do the city's bookkeeping.

Next round in the dispute may be at the city council meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in the Del Mar School multi-purpose room.

The name of Marysville was voted unanimously by pioneers at a mass meeting in honor of Mary Murphy Covillaud, wife of Charles Covillaud, because she had been very gracious to miners who were ill or in trouble in the bustling minig camp.

The name Carquinez (strait in Upper San Francisco Bay) was derived from the Karquin Indians.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

College Young People Haven't Changed In Moral Attitudes

DEAR HELEN:

As one of the top "roarers" of the Roaring 20's, I can say college young people haven't changed much in their moral attitudes—the good still stay good and the rounders still get around—but they sure go about it differently. I'm talking about the minority here—the wild ones.

In the day of the raccoon coat, the hip flask and the flapper, it was good fun. Nowadays sex is for a cause. You can't tell me those free-speech, free-love, long-hairs enjoy themselves. They're too busy promoting, and they make themselves ridiculous, which is probably what they want. Anything for publicity.

In my hey-hey day, everybody strummed a banjo. Now it's guitars. We wore shaggy coats. Now the shag is on the head. We stumped for "companionate marriage" though we didn't really mean it. Female attire? Hardly changed at all.

Yep, the props are quite similar, but all the fun is gone. This segment of the young generation doesn't know how to enjoy. They're too busy trying to prove something, they know not what.

. . . And maybe that's why they're going "camp." When you begin to feel crawly about your life, you swing to the opposite extreme, like Rin Tin Tin movies, and a cookie lift for the men in Viet Nam.

Does this make sense to anyone but me? — JUST THINKING

DEAR J. T.:

It makes lots of sense—but I'm glad you mentioned "minority" in the first paragraph. Contrary to a popular fear among parents, not all college people join far-out marches, use pep pills and shack up—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I stopped growing at five feet four, and, for a man, that's bad. All that jazz about "stature, not inches" is fine for people who never had girls look down on them. Me, I'd give 10 years of my life for a few more inches in height.

I heard of a drug that isn't on prescription yet—you can get it down at the gym. It's supposed to work on your pituitary gland and make you grow. They say it's "experimental but proved." But, like a lot of things, doctors won't take it up.

Have you heard of this, and should I try it? — SHORTY

DEAR SHORTY:

Yes, I've heard of this drug, and you should not, repeat not, try it. Moreover, you should report its under-the-counter sale to your local Public Health office. It will not make you grow taller, and it could be dangerous.—H.

Note to readers: Why can't people realize their doctors know best?—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Our grandson, age 17, has been ill since last August with a rare blood disease. He has been in and out of hospitals, but nothing seems to check it. Now he must be in bed most of the time. He is an only child and I know mail would cheer him. His address: Charles E. Brooks III, 7750 N.W. 28th Street, West Hollywood, Florida, 33024. Mail from young people would be especially helpful. Thank you in advance—GRANDPARENTS

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Hearings Set On Job Opportunities

Public hearings will be held on public and private employment relating to women by a state study committee under the auspices of the Advisory Commission on the Status of Women in San Francisco on April 28 and 29.

The meetings will be held in room 1194, State Building, 455 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco.

Subjects that will be considered are:

Should the Fair Employment Practices Act be amended to include "sex" among its prohibitions against discrimination in employment?

Should women be limited to an eight hour work day?

Are the employment procedures of the federal and state "equal pay" laws effective?

Should maternity benefits be provided under the disability insurance program of the State of California; if so, what benefits should be provided and what eligibility standards should be imposed?

How adequate is the present child care center program for mothers working in agriculture and other industries?

To what extent, if any, should women be restricted in weight lifting? Are the present limitations on weight lifting medically realistic? To what extent is the weight lifting limitation used as a basis for wage rate differences or layoffs?

What effect have veteran's preference points on the promotional opportunities of women in government?

What problems are unique to the "mature woman" in seeking and obtaining employment?

What special problems confront women working in agriculture? Should additional protective legislation be considered in overcoming such problems?

Should the minimum wage law in California be extended to cover all employed persons?

Persons who wish to appear and testify on any of these subjects may notify Mrs. Marion Ash, executive secretary, Advisory Commission on the Status of Women, Suite 1012, 11th and L Building, Sacramento, of the date they wish to appear.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

Creative Marinites are in the forefront in tomorrow's issue of the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine. Subject of a feature story by I-J music critic Maybelle Speckmann is Dr. Giulio Silva of Novato, composer, teacher and music scholar. At 90, Dr. Silva is still an active figure in the musical world. The I-J weekend supplement tells you about the past that has brought him international fame, and about his plans for the future.

Also spotlighted in tomorrow's magazine will be a Marin artist currently enjoying immense success and acclaim. I-J art critic Laura Devendorf writes about Geoffrey Lewis of Greenbrae, a painter in the classical tradition of the romantic realism of the old masters. Proving there is still a need for this style of work, Lewis is a particaularly prolific painter, yet he is unable to keep pace with the increasing demand for his work.

Fashionable Working Girl Has Her Vote

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's sort of like voting for Norman Thomas for president; you know you're supporting a losing candidate. But each year, my vote for those who should be on that international best-dressed list goes to the American working girl. I repeat her for all 10 blanks on the ballot.

I know right now my candidate's a "goner," even though what most working women accomplish on a narrow budget for clothing is far more miraculous than being able to have a Mainbacher run up a $2,000 evening dress or Maximilian create a special $15,000 mink coat.

But I favor her over those with unlimited money to spend, because on $500 to $1,000 a year, in some instances even less, the white collar girls are extremely chic.

Stand on any Main Street, USA, to see what I mean.

MOST HAVE learned through persistent shopping and trial and error to keep wardrobes simple. Most know how to use colors. If it's a fad for the white stockings or the bulky "fun" fur coats, they limit themselves to just one fad. They've learned that a well cut suit or basic skimmer dress can be changed a dozen ways with accessories. They're always well-shod and hair is well groomed.

This is not to disparage the taste of women who do make the list, compiled from the balloting of about 2,000 women's and fashion editors and other observers of the social scene. It's just that once I'd like to see the working girl recognized.

ALSO MARKING AN anniversary this month, their 56th, were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sage Hannis of San Rafael, who celebrated at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Lofquist of Sacramento. Mrs. Hannis is a retired teacher and Mr. Hannis is retired from his work as an engineer. The highlight of the celebration, which was attended only by family members, was the presence of Mrs. Hannis's brother, David Donald Wilson of Sacramento, whom they had not seen for six years. Mrs. Russell Wilson Hannis assisted the hostess for the luncheon party, which was organized by the Hannisses' oldest son, Russell.

MRS. STANLEY Cowen has returned to Sausalito from a trip to Southern California and Mazatlan, Mexico. A past president of the Sausalito Woman's Club, she was elected president of the Presidents Assembly of Marin on Feb. 21 just before she left.

A BRUNCH IS on the calendar for April 17 at the Meadow Club to honor another engaged couple, Sandy Kok and Robert Wykoff, who will marry May 7 in San Francisco. Hosts will be the William Brownells, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jeffries and the David Brownells (Suanne Jeffries).

EMBARKED ON A 26-day cruise aboard the Santa Magdalena sailing from New Jersey south to Lima, Peru is Mrs. Helen J. Crane of Kentfield. Ports of call will include Barranquilla and Cartagena, Colombia; Cristobal and Balboa in the Canal Zone, Buenaventura, Colombia; Guayaquil, Ecuador and Lima.

MRS. RICHARD CRANE of Novato entertained at a bridge party and dessert luncheon honoring Mrs. Frank Bell on Thursday. Mrs. Bell and her husband, the parents of Mrs. Enid Hindmarch of Novato will be returning to their home in England after spending the winter in Novato. Guests invited with Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Hindmarch were Mesdames Allen Wood, James Leland, Wilfred Waldrop, Robert Farrell and Sydney Smith.

MARIN FILM FARE

Richard Burton Outstanding As Spy

By LES DARD

Here's what's on tap this weekend at Marin area movie theaters:

TAMALPAIS THEATER

Richard Burton has received an Oscar nomination for his starring role in "The Spy Who Came In From the Cold," now on screen. It is certainly Burton's finest performance, and the film itself is the best spy show ever filmed.

Unlike most of the current espionage spoofs and superspoofs, this one's dead serious. Burton plays a hardened, cynical professional agent who detests his work, his colleagues, and the grey, murky world they are forced to inhabit — "the cold" of the title.

His immediate assignment is to destroy the head of East German intelligence, but there are so many twists, double-crosses and counter-plots that about the only thing the viewer doesn't doubt is the suspense and dynamic tension which grip him from the first moment on.

Aside from its high entertainment aspect, the film ruthlessly probes the "morals" of a world that permits great atrocities in the name of freedom and democracy.

This is an extremely potent production, one of the best offerings for the new year.

SLIGHT UPSET—Brian Keith helps Maureen O'Hara up from the dust after a wagon accident in "The Rare Breed," now at the Rafael, but lets Juliet Mills fend for herself. The film also stars Jimmy Stewart.

SEQUOIA THEATER

The record shattering "Thunderball," latest James Bond adventure, is now playing.

Much of the footage was shot underwater — off the Bahamas. As always, there's plenty of action—spiced with girls. The roster of lovelies this trip includes Claudine Auger, Martine Beswick and Molly Peters.

The villian in Emilio Largo (Adolpho Celi), a SPECTRE agent who steals two atom bombs from a NATO bomber in order to extort a king's ransom from the free world.

Of course, the only one who can thwart his sinister plans is none other than the indominatable Secret Agent 007. The tongue-in-cheek flavor so prevalent in the earlier productions is here too, in top form.

LARK THEATER

Now playing is "To Die in Madrid," the story of the Spanish Civil War.

This is a new dimension in documentaries. The tragedy and inhumanity of the war is traced from its roots in internal strife, through the bloody fighting and up to the heart-breaking introduction of Hitler's crack Condor Legion.

We see the King's departure, Franco's rise to power, foreign intervention, the defense of Madrid, atrocities like the bombing of Guernica, and more.

A significant comparison is drawn between this war and Viet Nam — with the United States seen in an unfavorable light.

RAFAEL THEATER

Professional acting talent, a variety of tempos, and a surprisingly entertaining story line makes "The Rare Breed," now playing, something delightful for all the family.

James Stewart is hired by newly-widowed Englishwoman Maureen O'Hara who has come to America with a prize Hereford in the 1880's. Stewart is to deliver the bull to its buyer, a wild Scotsman who wants to breed the Hereford with his longhorns.

There's a romantic tangle between Stewart, Miss O'Hara and the Scotsman, played by Brian Keith, and a sprightly romance between two members of the younger set, Juliet Mills and Don Galloway.

101 DRIVE-IN

Now showing is "The Outrage," an unusual entry starring Paul Newman, Claire Bloom and Laurence Harvey.

The film starts in a crumbling railroad station. A preacher, a prospector and a seedy con man discuss a murder trial just finished. We learn conflicting versions of the crime in flashback. It's a western Roshamon.

NOVATO THEATER

Frank Sinatra, Deborah Kerr, Caesar Romero and Trini Lopez star in "Marriage on the Rocks," a bright domestic comedy now playing.

Co-featured is "Never Too Late." Paul Ford, Maureen O'Hara, Connie Stevens and Jim Hutton star—bouncing laugh-a-minute language between them with great zest.

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE

Held over is "Ship of Fools," a film of immense scope with an extremely talented international cast, including Simone Signoret, Jose Ferrer, Heinz Ruemann, Oskar Werner, Lee Marvin, Vivian Leigh, Charles Korvin, Elizabeth Ashley, George Segal, Werner Klemperer, Jose Greco and Michael Dunn, to name a few.

Also featured is "Cat Ballou."

Both films have received numerous Oscar nominations.

FAIRFAX THEATER

If first class comedy is your dish, then here's the place. Still holding over is "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines," a 1910 London-to-Paris air race sponsored by a British newspaper. The film features Stuart Whitman, Terry-Thomas, Sarah Miles, James Fox, Gert Frobe, Jean-Pierre Cassel, Red Skelton and Robert Morley.

Wonderful escapism.

College Has Sellout 'Three-Penny Opera'

All five scheduled performances of College of Marin's musical drama production, "Three Penny Opera," ares old out, according to James Dunn, director of the play.

The play, which will be the college's first musical production, opens tonight and continues tomorrow and next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the college's little theater, Room 1, Harlan Hall.

Detroit Speedup

DETROIT (AP) —Ward's Automative Reports says auto producers will end production of 1966 models earlier this year than last and begin 1967 production in mid-August.

Paintings On Display

Artist William D. Latshaw of 385 Elm Avenue, Larkspur, has opened a showing of recent paintings at the House of Furniture, 2000 Union Street, San Francisco. The paintings will be on display through May 31.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Legislature pushes hard in attempt to enact budget before regular budget session ends April 4, with Senate Finance Committee ready to work Saturday if needed.

Political attention centers on decision of Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh to run for the lower house again, not for the Senate or a statewide job.

Bill passed:

Court — Establishes fifth appellate court district in Los Angeles County, with three justices, and appropriates $235,000 for operation; AB 76x, Willson, D-Huntington Park.

Bills introduced:

Bonds — Permits legislature by two-thirds vote of both houses to remove from ballot constitutional amendment before next general election; AB 138x, Garrigus, D-Reedley.

Marin — Provides for $12,000 annual salaries instead of $35 per day fees for court reporters in Marin County; AB 139x, Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Poverty — Appropriates $8 million for hiring more teachers in poverty areas; sets aside $1 million for teacher training; appropriates $20.8 million from proposed $260 million school bond issue to build permanent classrooms in poverty pockets; AB 137x, Veysey, R-Brawley.

THE SENATE

Constitutional amendment introduced:

Tax — Grants property tax exemption of $16,000 on market value of property used for one year by person 65 years or older if person has been resident of state for 10 years; SCA 2, Dolwig, R-San Mateo.

Former Marinite Arrested For Desecrating Flag

Peter Oliver Lombardi, whose mother, Mrs. Mary Nickel Lombardi James, inherited part of the $40-million fortune of California cattle baron Henry Miller while a resident of San Rafael, has been arrested in Honolulu on a charge of descrating the American flag. He is due to appear in court Tuesday for arraignment.

He moved to Hawaii from Marin County three years ago when his mother married Ted James, wealthy Honolulu realty broker. She was formerly married to Oliver Lombardi, San Francisco insurance man.

According to Honolulu police, young Lombardi was arrested Monday during a rally at the University of Hawaii protesting the war in Viet Nam.

Lombardi, 22, had been attending the university but was not a student this year, reportedly because of "academic failures."

On display at the rally, said police, was a mock flag with dollar signs instead of stars, and with the stripes dripping blood.

Interviewed yesterday, his mother said she and her family were shocked at hearing of his arrest.

"I'm horrified by his political activities and his associations. We're all staunch Republicans and conservatives," she said.

Lombardi has not lived with his mother and stepfather since moving to Hawaii, but makes his home near the university campus.

During the past two years, he has been closely associated with liberal and civil rights causes in Hawaii.

Mrs. James was one of eight heirs to the vast estate of Henry Miller, who died in 1916. A trust, established before his death, did not spell out how the stock of Miller and Lux, Inc., was to be divided, and it was not until 1963, after a battle lasting many years, that Mrs. James, Miller's great-granddaughter was awarded a $4 million share.

Bolinas Harbor Plans Progress Reported

Bolinas Harbor District commissioners heard reports last night from the district's planner, Norman Gilroy, and William H. Thomson, state wildlife manager, on proposals for developing Bolinas Harbor, but took no action.

A district plan for harbor development is expected to be ready to present to the county board of supervisors in July, Clyde W. King, board vice president, reported.

Killer Mountain Climbed At Last

KLEINE SCHEIDEGG, Switzerland (AP)—A death-defying Alpine expedition conquered Mt. Eiger today over the direct vertical route on the ice-covered north wall — the first in alpinism's history.

The feat was accomplished by four Germans and a Briton, all that was left of a 13-man, three-nation group which set out on the wall 30 days ago.

The final leg of the ascent to the 13,036-foot summit over a treacherous ice field was carried out despite howling winds and temperatures down to 40 below zero.

Ross Trustees Given Good News On Budget

Supt. William W. Monahan last night gave the Ross School District Board his first estimate of total budget figures for the 1966-67 fiscal year.

He said the district would have a maximum income of $375,000. Expenditures to meet normal operation costs would amount to $362,000, he predicted. This year's budget totaled $350,531.

The board quickly discussed priorities for spreading the remaining $13,000. Top items were resurfacing the playground, improving lights in some classrooms, and painting.

A meeting was set to start at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow to interview four candidates for the job of superintendent. Monahan has resigned as of the end of the school year.

The board adopted a school calendar for the next school year of 176 days, to open Sept. 12 and close June 15. The schedule matches that of Tamalpais High School District.

Mrs. Hazel Nelson, speaking for the Ross School District Teachers Assn. discussed principles upon which a salary recommendation should be based. She promised to present a specific request at the next meeting.

Announcing the Mercedes-Benz 250S: the $6500 car without an ounce of fat

Classic Mercedes-Benz radiator distinguishes new 250S. For what's behind it, read below.

This new Mercedes-Benz weighs a ton less, measures two feet shorter than its $6500 rivals—and leaves them wallowing in its wake. Yet matches them for spaciousness. And replaces gimmickry with advances like 4-wheel disc brakes. Read more about the best engineered, best built car in its class.

AN addition to the line and not a replacement, the new 250S outdates no current Mercedes-Benz. But it does nudge a few other $6500 cars into unplanned obsolescence.

About that price: It includes automatic transmission, power steering and brakes and many other extras. You can buy a 250S without frills for $5811.*

Not a fat cat

Fat cars move as sluggishly as fat men. There is no excuse for them—as the new 250S proves. Within its trim dimensions is ample room for 5 adults, their hats and their luggage. You'll find an interior wider than the newest Rolls-Royce (and a trunk with more cubic feet of capacity than Cadillac, Lincoln or Imperial). Even the windshield and door pillars are slim. Result: 87% unobstructed visibility. Farewell, claustrophobia.

Some things about this new body that you can't see: a unit-type structure, welded at 10,000 points to squelch rattles; sheet metal more than a millimeter thick; 24 pounds of primer and 24 pounds of undercoating, and 3 patient hours of hand finishing before the paint goes on. When the paint does go on, it goes on very carefully; the whole process consumes 16 hours.

Built to be driven

Mercedes-Benz engineers designed the 250S for driving, not driveways. Where "luxury" cars cling to the technical status quo, the 250S bristles with fresh ideas.

Item: A taut fully independent suspension that couples smooth riding with tenacious road holding. The 250S sticks to the road and you stick to your seat. No seasick wallowing, pitching or rolling. This is one $6,000 car that isn't fazed by rough or winding roads. In fact, it thrives on them; factory test-drivers regularly blast over a 230-mile course that snakes through the mountainous Black Forest. Average time: 3½ hours.

How to stop

Cost aside, the surest way to stop any car is with 4-wheel disc brakes (as the racing world proves—they're standard equipment on 170-mph Grand Prix machines). And in this vital matter, Mercedes-Benz engineers put cost aside. A 10-inch, caliper-type disc brake is clamped to each wheel of the 250S.

10-inch disc brake for every wheel.

Further brake facts: a dual circuit brake system is standard equipment. So is an automatic control that balances front and rear braking forces. No terrifying rear wheel lockup in panic stops from 90 mph. In fact, no panic stops. There is no more efficient braking system known—"luxury" cars please note.

Quiet at 100 mph

The 250S engine pours out a top speed of 112 mph. Conditions and mood permitting, you could run up to 100 mph and stay there all day—restfully: "There is as little inside noise at 100 mph as at a standstill," observes New York Herald Tribune automotive columnist, Leo Levine.

Food for thought: this 6-cylinder engine is about one-third the size of a typical "luxury" car V8. Average fuel consumption is 20 miles per gallon.

Not a boudoir

The 250S is as functional inside as outside. No gaudy trappings. Individual front seats are 22 inches wide. They adjust up and down and fore and aft. They also recline. The 5-foot-wide rear seat is as carefully shaped as those up front. These seats are firmly padded—the reason you can travel 500 nonstop miles without feeling haggard at trip's end. A built-in ventilation system supplies constant fresh air. You need never crack open a window. And that wood instrument panel trim is real wood.

Safety to the fore

Because Mercedes-Benz engineers faced some grim facts and took measures to minimize them, the 250S provides a rare sense of security. Front and rear body sections are designed to yield on violent impact while the passenger area stays intact. Inside, possible danger spots are padded, recessed or made of flexible material. Safety dictated the design of every feature—from the steering assembly to the roof supports.

Spring Means More Work, Play

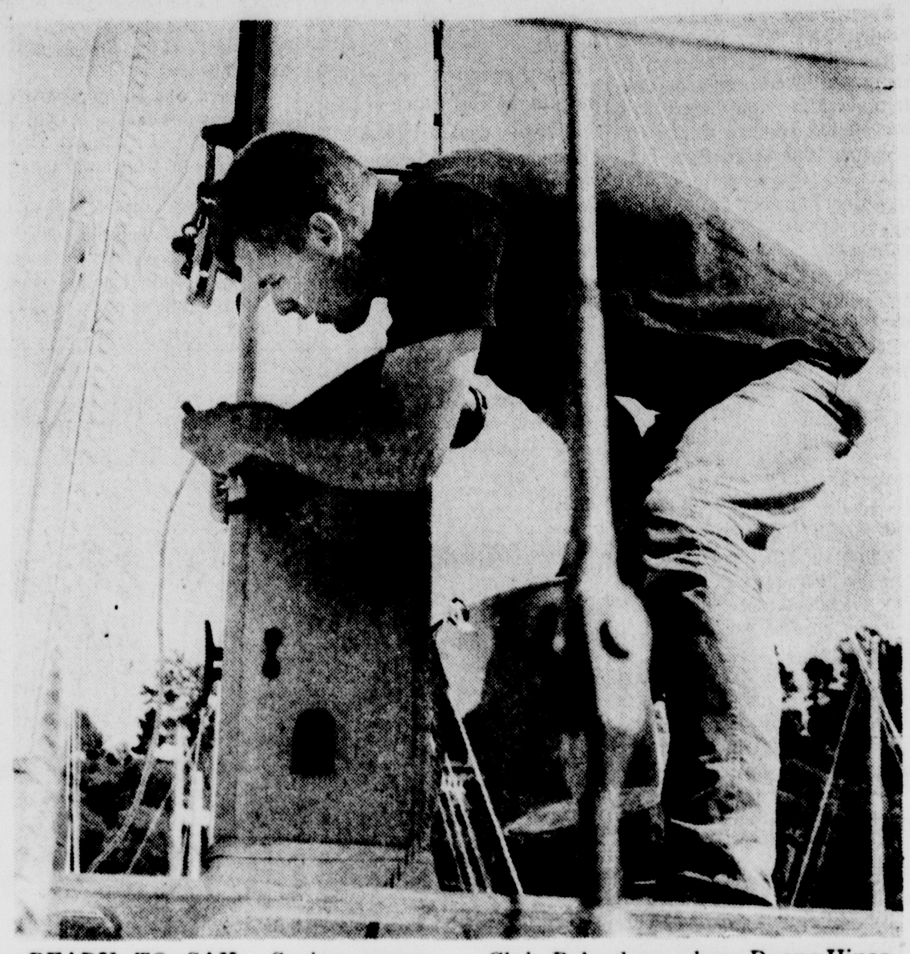

HARD TO STUDY—It's difficult, trying to concentrate when the sun strikes grass and trees at the College of Marin. Some students give up and stand on their hands (right); others just relax.

GARDENING—When spring comes, Frank J. Etringer of Corte Madera has plenty of work, pulling weeds and gardening under the warm sun.

Independent-Journal photos by Ellen Bry

READY TO SAIL—Spring means work is to be done on boats, such as this one at the San Francisco Yacht Club, Belvedere, where Duane Hines of Sausalito varnishes the mast. Official opening day of the sailing season is May 1.

SURE SIGN—When the poppies begin to bloom along every roadside — and often unwanted on front lawns—you can be sure spring has come to Marin. The county has a full range of wild flowers which will be in bloom for more than a month.

SWINGING GAME—In the spring, some young men's fancies turn to thoughts of softball. Scott Cozza, a student at St. Raphael's School in San Rafael, sends the ball off with a swing of the bat and a grimace.

RELAXED—Spring is a fine time to sit in the sun and discuss the state of the world, art, politics, what to have for lunch and other serious subjects, as Jerry Johnson of San Francisco (left) and Dion Warren of Mill Valley are doing in Sausalito's Vina del Mar Plaza.

EAGER EYE—Henry Pierroz of Mill Valley has formed the Girl Watchers Society and hands out cards of approval, signed with his name, as president of the august group. The society was just formed—in the spring, when a young man's fancy . . .

HILLSIDE PICNIC—It's time to head for the country, when the weather warms and the grass turns from dry brown to soft green. Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Coady of Novato sample cool wine under a shady tree on a North Marin hillside.

FBI Catches Up With Convict 'Born To Lose'

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — "Born to lose" proved a prophetic blemish as well as a key to identity as the FBI struck another name from its list of 10 most wanted fugitives.

Agents apprehended Jack Daniel Sayadoff, 30, native of Hartford, Conn., in an Indianapolis parking lot yesterday after spotting his car. Sayadoff at first refused to give his name but admitted his identity when agents recognized the tattoo, "Born to Lose," on his right arm.

Sayadoff was quoted as saying, "How true."

A short time later, agents arrested Mrs. Patsy Ann Janakos, 30, in a rented Indianapolis apartment. They said she and Sayadoff had occupied it since Jan. 18 under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Jack F. Delano. Neither offered resistance, agents said, although two guns were found in the apartment.

Mrs. Janakos' 3 - year - old daughter was in the apartment.

The couple is charged in California with fleeing with the child after abducting an elderly babysitter and leaving her bound and gagged in a Newark (Alameda County) home.

The daughter had been placed in her father's custody pending divorce proceedings.

Sayadoff is charged with bank robberies in Chicago, San Francisco, suburban Pittsburgh and Lakewood, Ohio. The robber was aided by a female accomplice in three of the robberies, the FBI said.

Fourth Hat In GOP Competition

SAN DIEGO (AP) — W. Earl Smart, 44, an attorney in nearby Lemon Grove, took out papers yesterday for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governnor.

Smart, who paid a $500 filing fee, has until 5 p.m. today to get 65 valid signatures to qualify for the June 7 primary race.

It's Smarts' first try at public office. He's a resident of nearby El Cajon.

He has three GOP opponents, obert Finch of Los Angeles; Norman Davis of Riverside and Lyndon R. Foster of Saugus.

San Rafael School Probers Hear Stream Of Witnesses

A California Teachers Assn. committee investigating problems in the San Rafael city schools heard testimony from 42 persons between 9 a.m. yesterday and 1:15 a.m. today.

The hearings began again at 9 a.m. today and are scheduled to run until 10 p.m. James Williamson of the personnel standards commission of the CTA said the panel was scheduled to hear from 32 parents, teachers and administrators today.

That would bring to 105 the number heard during three days of hearings, Williamson said. In addition, he said, an uncounted number of San Rafael residents and educators have submitted testimony in writing to the panel.

Williamson said the panel has been able to hear everyone who wanted to testify in person. Written testimony can be submitted at Room 2 of the Edgewater Inn motel, until the investigating team leaves tomorrow morning, he said.

After that, anyone wishing to write a statement for panel consideration may mail it to Williamson at CTA state headquarters, 1705 Murchison Drive, Burlingame.

Williamson estimated it will be from six to eight weeks before the panel returns to the county to make reports, both written and oral, to San Rafael teachers, administrators and board of education.

The five-member panel was brought in by the CTA after the San Rafael Teachers Assn., CTA local chapter, requested an investigation by the personnel standards commission.

Los Angeles has the shortest street car line in the world, Angel's Flight—a street railway which travels 315 feet up and down a steep hill.

Navy Jet's Crash Belatedly Bared

CHINA LAKE NAVAL ORDNANCE TEST STATION, Calif. (UPI) — An A-7A Crusader 2 Navy fighter-bomber built for use in Viet Nam crashed and burned near here Wednesday, but the accident went unreported for 24 hours.

An industry test pilot, whose identity was not disclosed, parachuted to safety from an altitude of 800 feet when the jet engine apparently failed while he was simulating flame out approaches to the field with the engine idling. The plane crashed two miles from the end of the runway.

A spokesman said the crash was not announced "because it was decided to respond only to query."

Kettenhofen Plans Session For Residents

Sausalito Candidates Tell Views

By ALAN P. CUNNINGHAM

Close to 200 persons packed the Sausalito Women's Club last night to hear, applaud for and occasionally guffaw at the views of six candidates for two seats on the Sausalito City Council in the April 12 election.

Limited by a strict set of ground rules and a timekeeper with a bell, the candidates accomplished the remarkable feat of completing their presentations—including answering questions from the floor—in an hour and 40 minutes.

Appearing were Mayor Jan Paul Dyk, Councilman Earl F. Dunphy and candidates Mrs. Marsha Owen (Sally Stanford), Matthew J. Perry, S. Robert Politzer and Serge Trubach.

The club had sent the candidates four questions on city problems and asked them to confine their eight-minute speeches to answering these questions. For the most part, the candidates did so.

These were the questions, and some of the replies:

Question 1: How would you propose to strengthen the policies of the police department to achieve more comprehensive and greater public protection?

Dunphy: The city's new police chief should be "a man who is interested in Sausalito," who will attend community functions, wear a uniform, and not consider his work confined to a 40-hour week. He favors foot patrols downtown but would maintain patrols by car in residential neighborhoods. The present force of 21 men is adequate.

Dyk: A start has been made on setting up weekend evening foot patrols, but citizens must realize an excess of these would drain men from "preventive patrolling" in residential areas.

Mrs. Owen: "Looking at the budget for 1963 and 1964, I see that over 13,000 parking tickets were given. These were not given to criminals but to ordinary citizens. That took one and a half officers eight hours a day for one year. And I see that felonies were up 40 per cent in that same year."

The audience roared when Mrs. Owen said she did not blame Police Chief Kenneth H. Huck for resigning.

"One more year in Sausalito and he wouldn't have been able to get a job in a pickle factory."

She also accused City Mgr. Charles A. Brown of trying to be fire chief, police chief and head of every other department simultaneously. "You should keep him out of the police department — or fire him," she said.

Perry: "All you have to do is get a working chief of police who will get a uniform, go down in the business district, do a little work, help his boys direct traffic when he has to, and work on Saturdays and Sundays."

Politzer: The new chief's contract should bind him to staying in the job for a stated period, with a penalty if he leaves before then, "to avoid hiring another temporary chief."

(Huck, whose last day was today, started in the job March 1, 1964).

"Unique problems" of Sausalito's hills and footpaths call for new solutions, such as "staggered spot patrols," on foot as well as by car in residential areas.

Trubach: Patrolman should spend four hours on foot, then switch to cars for an equal period.

Question 2: Are you satisfied with the present chain of command in our city government? What revisions would you suggest?

Dunphy: No. The council needs better communication with department heads, and is studying a committee system to get this without having to wait for the city manager's reports.

Dyk: "In general, I am satisfied with the system" and "suggest no revision of the (city manager) ordinance at this time," although "at times there could be greater rapport and understanding."

Mrs. Owen, only speaker who failed to follow the evening's ground rules closely, here made a running attack on Brown, including a charge that he has done less than he should in protecting the city's interests when dealing with Marin Municipal Water District.

Perry, longtime fire chief, said Brown "is a very good friend of mine—but he was hell on those memorandums."

Politzer: The council "lacks direction and imagination," thus fails to inspire the administrative staff to have these qualities."

Trubach: Councilmen "are nice people but we don't have much talent on the council." As "commander-in-chief," the mayor "should get up at 3 a.m. once in a while and go out and see what's going on."

Question 3: What is the order of importance of capital expenditures such as library, sea wall, water mains? How should they be financed?

Dunphy: The city will have $62,052 toward the new library by June 30, and if people want it built sooner, "I would suggest a bond issue."

The seawall is "reaching the point where patching is no longer practical."

Dyk: It is hard to set up "a table of priority" but library and sea wall are important, and the fire chief should submit "a strong recommendation" at budget time on what new water mains are needed.

Mrs. Owen: Instead of putting in a parking lane on Bridgeway, there should be "parking circles" extending into the bay at intervals where people could "sit and fish" as well as park cars. "I don't think they'd have to spend all that money to do it."

Perry: Four inch water mains, laid years ago, have shrunk to two inches inside-diameter as corrosion built up, thus are inadequate. A house fire in the wrong direction, on a windy day, could spread rapidly and inadequate mains might burst if pumpers tried to get much pressure from them.

Politzer: Dangers of the seawall falling have been exaggerated. The library—"55 years overdue"—should be given first priority.

Trubach: Widening Bridgeway is "a horror. You'll get 90 matching funds and 100 per cent chaos."

To handle the weekend influx of autos, there should be 32-story parking buildings downtown with stores and restaurants.

Question 4: What do you feel is the most important problem facing Sausalito today and how would you propose to handle it?

Dunphy: "Marincello."

Dyk: "Maintaining our identity as a residential community of great beauty."

Politzer: Weekend traffic. To this, he said, "widening Bridgeway is no answer. The city should instead build parking lots, designating some for residents and outlying ones for nonresidents, then should route the latter group around the town to get there.

To Dunphy, Mrs. Owen replied that the city had no business suing the county over Marincello.

"If you don't like what they are doing there, you should buy it and pay taxes on it, or keep your mouth shut!"

LESSON ON LAOS—Dr. Somphou Oudomvilay, director of teacher training in Laos, explains a few things about his country to French students at Sir Francis Drake High School during a visit there yesterday. He found the students well able to grasp his comments, delivered almost entirely in French, and discovered many of them had up-to-the minute questions about Laos, which borders South Viet Nam.

STOP, LISTEN, LOOK-TRAINS RUN AGAIN

The California Highway Patrol today resurrected a rule long forgotten in North and Central Marin: Stop, look and listen at railroad crossings!

Effective Monday, drivers of school buses and of trucks carrying explosives or inflammables will be required to stop when crossing all Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks, Capt. Theodore F. Parnow, head of the California Highway Patrol's Corte Madera headquarters, announced today.

The requirement for such stops north of San Rafael was lifted following a fire in the Puerto Suello railroad tunnel on July 20, 1961, which led to cessation of service on the line.

With work trains now making runs through the crossings to repair the tunnel, the hazard has been renewed, Parnow explained.

Officer Spots Suspect For Petaluma

An off-duty Novato policeman's sharp eye led last evening to arrest of a suspect in a Petaluma service station robbery.

Patrolman Louis Robinette about 6 p.m. recognized a light blue 1958 Buick which had been described two hours earlier by Petaluma police as the car seen leaving the armed robbery at 9:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Robinette alerted swing-shift Novato police who followed the car to the 800 block of Sweetzer Avenue and arrested Jerry Marvin Sager, 31, of 7530 Redwood Highway, Apt. 5, Novato.

Patrolman James Mathews of Petaluma police later returned Sager there for questioning in the holdup.

A robber, wearing a white handkerchief as a mask and holding his hand in his coat pocket as though gripping a gun, took $200 in cash from the service station. The station attendant, Jerrold A. Willis, saw him drive away after the robbery and provided the car description which was later given to Novato.

Shasta (County, Mountain, Town) is an Indian name, but the origin has not been definitely determined.

SPEAKER AT DRAKE

Laotian Predicts Red Takeover, Eventually

Loas, which has managed to remain neutral in spite of the raging war in nearby South Viet Nam, will probably fall to communism in time, a Laotian education official told French students at Sir Francis Drake High School yesterday.

Somphou Oudomvilay, director of teacher training for the Southeast Asian monarchy, spoke in French—and answered questions posed in that tongue—before the third-year French class of Mrs. Sue Nies, to which several fourth-year students had also been invited for the day.

Oudomvilay said he had been in this country six weeks, with five more weeks to go, and had been to five other states as well as Puerto Rico before he arrived in California. His purpose, he said, was to get a look at American schools, but he also was trying hard in each area simply to get out, meet Americans, and find out what they are like.

He insisted his country's government and economy have remainde stable in spite of the Vietnamese war, but said the Pathet Lao—Laotian conuterpart to the Viet Cong—would be hard to eliminate, largely because it has been able to capitalize on vague fears of the people and the large split between rich and poor.

"C'est dificile a combatter les communistes," he said repeatedly to the students ("It is hard to fight the communists.")

The Laotian official stayed on after school and answered further questions in an informal session with members of the Drake Diplomats, an international relations club. While able to speak English well, he chose again to answer the questions in French, while the students asked them in English. Mrs. Nies translated.

Youngsters in Laos must go to school until they are 16, he said. Most classes are in French, although a movement is under way to establish them in the native Laotian tongue. Until this is put in throughout all levels, he noted, it creates a barrier for those who attend elementary schools in Laotian, then cannot go on to French-speaking secondary and college classes.

As in Cambodia, teachers receive a free education after promising to teach at least 10 years. The system parallels that set up in Cambodia with American help.

Oudomvilay appeared pleased at the ease with which the high school students comprehended his French, although many were shy about trying out their own accents, and a few cracked up in the middle of their questions.

The girls snickered when he explained that their counterparts in Laos are not allowed the same amount of social freedom that American girls are.

"Les jeunes filles," he said, stay home, work—and like it.

Terra Lindan To Manage Campaign Against Cranston

Assemblyman Houston Irvine Flournoy, 36, R-Claremont, will run for the Republican nomination to oppose State Controller Alan Cranston.

This was confirmed today in Sacramento by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who is circulating nomination papers for Flournoy.

Ed Slevin of Terra Linda will manage the campaign for Flournoy, an associate professor of government at Pomona College.

One of Flournoy's campaign issues will be the state's controversial inheritance tax appraiser system, under which the state controller is able to reward party faithfuls by appointment to the lucrative post of inheritance tax appraiser.

Assemblyman Bagley has been an outspoken foe of the appointments, which he terms the "last vestige of the old spoils system."

Two other Republicans interested in the controller's post are San Jose Mayor Joseph Pace, and Los Angeles accountant Robert E. McDavid, who filed his candidacy in Los Angeles today.

McDavid 57, is a former member of the State Board of Equalization. A certified public accountant, he lives in Altadena and conducts business in Pasadena.

Stanislaus (pronounced Stanis-law) is derived from "Estanislao," baptismal name given an Indian Chief who later turned renegade. The Indian name for the river is "La-kish-um-na."

Lawmakers Face Overtime Work To Wrap Up Record State Budget

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Senate leaders warned of weekend meetings today as Democrats pushed toward early decisions on Gov. Brown's $4.61 billion budget.

Vice Chairman Stephen Teale, D-West Point, said the Senate Finance Committee will meet tomorrow if it doesn't finish screening the state's biggest-ever spending bill on schedule.

A few hours after Teale told his colleagues yesterday he'd like the budget ready for delivery to the floor by Monday, Chairman Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda, of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, said he hopes for speedy action on the lower house version of the measure.

He said he believes the budget will clear his committee by Monday—with a showdown vote on the Assembly floor Wednesday.

"The Republicans tell me they'll be ready to go by Wednesday," Crown said.

But Crown said he didn't know if the militant GOP bloc in the lower house will bow to Democratic wishes and supply the Republican votes needed for passage of the bill.

With only 49-31 control of the house, Assembly Democrats need at least five Republican votes for the two-thirds majority required to send the budget to the Senate.

And Assembly Minority Leader Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, has said he knows of no Republican legislator who will vote for the budget as long as it is financed by Brown's new bookkeeping device.

Called the accrual system, the administration change would make available some $243 million more next year by permitting the state to count expected tax receipts as if they were already in the state treasury.

If the budget clears the Assembly, it will be rewritten by the Senate—according to legislative tradition — and a two-house conference committee will settle the differences.

Meanwhile, the Senate Finance Committee heard pleas for raises from state employees, including college and university professors. They were taken under submission.

Ways and Means continued its budget work, agreeing to several cuts. Among the big ones were $650,000 for a state technical services program and $750,000 from the educationally handicapped program.

Pollution Measures May Hike Coal Cost

PITTSBURGH (AP) —Acid draining from coal mines that pollutes streams, could cause an increase in the price of coal, says Dr. S. A. Braley, a scientist from the Mellon institute.

He said that if coal-producing states decide to require mine operators to install costly preventive measures, the price of coal to consumer could eventually rise.

Housewife Sues Over Crash Shock

A $200,000 damage suit has been filed in Marin Superior Court against Norman Kedrick Reinhard Jr., 22, driver of a car which crashed into a house at 1621 Mission Avenue, San Rafael, last July 10.

Co-defendant is Reinhard's father, Norman Kedrick Reinhard of 95 Twin Oaks Avenue, San Rafael.

The plaintiff, Jacqueline J. Farnand, who was asleep in the house, alleges negligent driving by the son resulted in her suffering fright and shock at seeing the youth lying across the vehicle's front seat "bleeding from several deep cuts around his eyes and head."

She claims she required hospitalization as a result of the crash.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown, who thinks political campaigns in California run much too long, noted yesterday that "The opposition has been running since last July."

Yacht Overturns, Owner Rescued

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Sunnyvale man was rescued by a Coast Guard helicopter from choppy waters off Seal Beach today after freak waves overturned his 25-foot catamaran.

Wyatt Crawford, 44, told his rescuers he had clung to a plastic life raft for nearly six hours.

Crawford was headed from Half Moon Bay to San Leandro when his twin-hulled boat was capsized. He was alone.

A passing motorist on the beach highway telephoned the Coast Guard.

Atlantic Cable Break Located

NEW YORK (AP) — Repairmen today located an underwater break that knocked out one of five transatlantic cables last night, hampering some communications.

A spokesman for the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. said the break was 68 miles offshore from Tuckerton, N.J.

A repair ship was dispatched but officials said they were not sure how long repairs would take.

The break interrupted communications of Press Wireless, while most other loads were automatically shifted onto the other four cables.

Underground Bill Introduced

SACRAMENTO (UPI)— Legislation intended to move telephone and power lines underground has been introduced in the Assembly.

Assemblyman Pearce Young, D-Napa, offered the bill yesterday to authorize formation of local districts to convert overhead wires to underground systems.

He said the issue was as important as control of billboards and development of scenic highways."

Similar bills died in both the 1963 and 1965 legislatures.

Novato Council Shifts Time For Meeting

The Novato City Council meeting tomorrow has been changed from 10 to 10:30 a.m., City Mgr. J. Julien Baget said today.

The council is to meet to discuss action taken last night by the Marin County Parks and Recreation commission regarding the proposed county park bond issue.

League Sets Guidelines For Planner

Marin County supervisors may have a hard time filling two vacancies on the county planning commission if they stick to qualification requirements suggested by directors of the Marin Conservation League.

The supervisors next Tuesday are to consider replacements for Felix M. Warburg, who resigned in January, and Harry H. Heifetz, who notified them he does not wish reappointment when his term expires next month.

The conservation league board, over signature of Mary Summers, league president and former county planning director, sent the supervisors a list of six proposed qualifications for anyone named to the commission.

Here they are:

1. That the personal interest of the appointee be "beyond possible reproach (justified or not) that his past or future activities would tend to favor a particular segment or special interest in the community."

2. That he "not pervert the planning process for personal gain or for favored members of the community at the expense of the general public."

3. That he have no "personal financial interest which could place him in the untenable position" of making recommendations that would "govern his livelihood."

4. That his "only reason for serving is that, as a result of good planning, his community will be a better place for him and his family and for all the people of the community to live, work and play, and so that we may transmit this county greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

5. That special training, while not necessary, would be a valuable asset, but that the man first be selected for his ability to "judge as between facts and arguments presented to him, that would most surely enhance Marin County as a living environment."

6. That the man should seek ways in which things can be accomplished, not be ready to explain why they cannot."

Ailing Turkish Leader Departs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Turkey's ailing President Cemal Gursel flew homeward today, still critically ill and in a coma after a series of strokes. President Johnson paid departure respects at the airport.

The suddenly arranged flight by U.S. Air Force plane took off from Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland this morning.

Johnson made a helicopter flight to the airfield, not announced in advance, to do Gursel honor. He returned to the White House shortly thereafter.

A Turkish embassy spokesman said it was decided that "further treatment and care of President Gursel should continue in Turkey."

TELEVISION REVIEW

English Programs Making Big Dent

By RICK DUBROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —The natural and close ties of the United States and Britain are providing the bridge by which American television is suddenly becoming more involved with regularly scheduled entertainment programs originating abroad.

There have, of course, been series on American video in the past that were produced overseas —for example, the excellent drama show, "Espionage," and the circus program, "International Showtime," both on NBC-TV.

Never, however, has there been —as there is now —such a splurge of British shows either on U.S. television or getting ready to go on.

The fact that virtually all of them are either mid-season or summer replacement series, and that sponsors and networks still feel a foreign accent may hurt ratings in the provinces, cannot dispel the certainty that such shows are merely the forerunners of greater American involvement in international productions.

Thus far, U.S. televiewers are perhaps best acquainted this season with two British entries in the spy category: CBS-TV's "Secret Agent," which has turned out to be the most charming and polished escapist fare on American network television, and ABC-TV's "The Baron." Both series are expected to be dropped because of ratings by the time the new season begins.

Another English adventure series, "The Saint," continues to be highly popular on a syndicated, non-network basis, although NBC-TV has lately not had anything to say about its former plans to pick it up.

This Monday, yet another British secret agent series with humor, "The Avengers," has its premiere on ABC-TV, replacing the canceled "Ben Casey."

And on April 8, ABC-TV will introduce a one-hour English-produced series, "Court Martial," starring two Americans, Bradford Dillman and Peter Graves, as "army officer-lawyers attached to the judge advocate general's department in Europe during World War II." This program replaces the Jimmy Dean show.

Starting in May, NBC-TV will offer a series of six one-hour variety shows taped at the London Palladium, and featuring American stars as emcees. The program will be produced by England's ATV network, and the three emcees set thus far are Kate Smith, Jonathan Winters and Lorne Greene.

CBS-TV, meanwhile, has announced that Red Skelton's summer replacement will be a one-hour British comedy-variety-circus series, "Hippodrome," with a different American comedy star as host each week.

The same network has also announced that Jackie Gleason's summer replacement will be a one-hour weekly variety hour produced in Europe, "Continental Showcase," with U.S. comedian Jim Backus as the regular host. The program will have its premiere June 11.

England, it also turns out, has helped provide essential material for an apparently unusual two-part story on Ireland scheduled for NBC-TV's "Frank McGee report" April 10 and 17. London's Imperial War Museum made available 50-year-old films of the Irish rebellion of Easter week, 1916, and the aftermath of fighting in the streets of Dublin.

Driver Draws Fine Of $276

Paul Edward Johnson, 38, of 555 Canal Street, San Rafael, was fined $276, sentenced to five days in county jail, and placed on a year's probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

He was arrested Feb. 19 on Highway 101 by California Highway Patrol and had a prior conviction.

Morris George Stevenson, 56, of 1618 Second Street, San Rafael, was fined $276 and placed on a year's probation, also for drunken driving. He was arrested Feb. 28 on Fifth Avenue by San Rafael police.

Wawona (Yosemite National Park) is perhaps Mokelumne Indian for "big tree."

Novato Youth, 15, Hottest Golfer On Marin Links

By RALPH CHATOIAN

You can't judge a book by its cover and you can't judge a golfer by his age.

A case in point is Ray Leach, sophomore at Novato High School, who is only 15 but possibly the best amateur golfer in Marin County. A member of Indian Valley Golg Club—where his father is part-owner—Ray is a one-handicapper, the only player in the county with that low rating.

Because of a unique class schedule at Novato High, Ray is at the Indian Valley course in Novato shortly after noon each day, sharpening up his game.

"My last class of the day is P.E. (physical education)," explains the young linkster. "My P. E. class is golf, so I report directly to the course for my class."

Ray's father, Al, retired as a master sergeant from the Air Force when Ray was nine, and promptly took over the restaurant and bar at the Indian Valley clubhouse, in addition to becoming a part-owner. So at nine, Ray found himself with a golf club in his hands and quickly found that wonderful things could eb done with that tool.

"I took quite an interest in golf, and I guess it just came natural," said the young golf sensation. When he was 13, before he ever took a professional lesson, he toured Indian Valley's 18 holes in four-under-par 68. He took his first formal lesson shortly after that feat.

Last year, at 14, he tied the course record with a sizzling 64, eight under par. Indian Valley now is a par-71 course after a change with one of the holes, but at the time of Ray's 64 it was par-72.

It happened on April 27, when the Novato High School golf team was having a nine-hole dual match with Drake High. Ray won his match quite easily with a 31. Novato golf coach Norm Hannon made sure that Ray's golf day didn't end on the ninth hole. Hannon grabbed some clubs and took off with Leach on the back nine, and the youngster carded a 33, giving a round of 64, tying the course record set by Jim Perron, former pro at Indian Valley.

Last April, Ray won the Marin County Junior Golf Tournament, competing with boys up to 17. He shot rounds of 72 and 74 on the Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club course for a 36-hole score of 146.

He has played in quite a few amateur tournaments this year, including the San Francisco City Championships in which he was No. 10 qualifier. In his second match he shot a 72 and still lost, 3 and 2, to Dr. Ron Luceti, quite an experienced golfer who had gone all the way to the finals of the British Amateur tournament tow years before.

Leach is now taking lessons from John Gertsen, pro at the San Francisco Golf Club. Gertsen, 54, used to be a regular on the Professional Golf Assn. tour, and tutored Tony Lema on the finer points of the game before Champagne Tony's rise to stardom.

"He (Gertsen) is one of the best," says Leach.

Ray usually drives about 250 yards off the tee, but once won a driving contest blasting a ball 310 yards. "I usually reach the 4-par holes in tow," said Leach, "and if my putting is sharp I can get in the 60s. But if my putting is so-so I'll be around par."

Ray is already thinking about a professional career in golf, but first will come college. The 5-foot 11, 160-pound sweet swinger is considering Brigham Young University, with hopes of a golf scholarship.

But let's not rush things. He's still got another three seasons of high school competition in front of him.

Return Of The Roman Umpire; Burch Is Top Hurler For USF

PLAY BALL: Babe Pinelli, the former American League ump whose retirement several years ago inspired that historical literary classic, "The Decline And Fall Of The Roman Umpire," will be guest speaker at the San Rafael Rotary Club next Monday noon at West End Villa.

As it is a luncheon, Pinelli will feel right at home speaking from behind the plate. And I dearly hope the bill of fare features a boo plate special of southern fried fowl. With the batter up, of course.

FURTHER PROOF that the Marin Athletic League has produced some top flight collegiate baseball prospects: Frank Burch (Marin Catholic) is No. 1 pitcher for USF where he's a senior; Terry Tadlock (Drake), shortstop for San Jose State; Nick Willard (Novato), outfielder for USF; Dave Beswick (Marin Catholic), pitcher-outfielder for Santa Clara.

Coaches, friends and families of other MAL alumni in college baseball are invited to inform us of their whereabouts.

PAUL NEUMANN, hot shooting guard for San Francisco's also-ran Warriors, will rub elbows with some champions next Thursday night: He's booked as guest speaker at College of Marin's basketball banquet, celebrating the Tars' championship season.

UNIVERSITY OF THE PACIFIC informs us that Jim Carroll of San Rafael, a 6-1, 210-pound junior tackle who lettered last year, is on the spring training grid roster. Carroll is a Redwood High grad.

REUNION: Bud Chadwick, former San Rafael High coach, was given a rude reception when he returned to Bulldogville for a visit yesterday. San Rafael's tennis team spanked Chadwick's Montgomery Vikings of Santa Rosa, 6-1.

ED JORGENSEN, who coached some pretty fair basketball at Marin Junior College in the mid-1940s, will leave his athletic chores at Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo and spend a year in Europe on a sabbatical leave. Stu Chestnut, Steady Eddie's assistant cage coach, will take over the head coaching chores.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Charley Shipes of Oakland will defend his California welterweight title against Henry Aldridge of San Jose on April 14 at San Francisco Civic Auditorium, the promoters announced yesterday.

Promoter Abe Acquistapace said the 12-round bout would be backed by three 10-rounders.

Former high-rated lightweight Bobby Scanlon of San Francisco will launch another comeback with Andy Gonzales as his welterweight opponent.

Another former high-ranked lightweight, Luis Molina of San Jose, draws a tough assignment, Don Hicks of San Francisco, undefeated in his last 23 bouts.

Toluco Lopez of Mexico tangles with Pete Gonzales of Los Angeles in the final 10, a lightweight battle.

7 Hits In His Last 10 At Bats

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A forlorn figure a year ago, Orlando Cepeda sings a little tune and does a little cha cha this spring in the camp of the San Francisco Giants.

He's also belting the baseball like the Cepeda of old.

In his last ten times at bat in Cactus League exhibition games against the Chicago Cubs and Cleveland, Cepeda has rapped seven hits including a double and home run.

The latter traveled 500 feet yesterday as the Giants snapped a six-game losing streak with a 10-4 victory over Cleveland at nearby Mesa.

A fence extends 30 feet into the air 420 feet from home plate and Cepeda's clout off Luis Tiant cleared it by five feet and still was traveling.

Cepeda, who led the Giants in hitting at .304 in 1964, underwent surgery on his right knee that December. When the knee didn't respond last spring, Orlando worried. He didn't get a hit in spring training when he went to the plate only four times.

He was on the disabled list much of the regular season and his only homer of 1965 came in a ninth inning pinch hit role on Sept. 30 when his two-run smash beat Cincinnati. Many observers feel that with Cepeda the Giants might have won the pennant.

This winter, Cepeda ran diligently on the beaches in Puerto Rico. He lifted weights. He worked hard knowing his career was at stake.

This spring Orlando remained a questionmark. He hit safely in only four of his first 17 times at bat, and limped when he ran.

His recent outburst has boosted his spring average over .400.

"The knee feels good," Cepeda declares. "I'm a happy man."

He's worked for it. Each day he continues to lift weights to strengthen the knee. After each game ice packs are put on it and trainer Leo Hughes carefully measures the circumference of the joint to be sure no fluid gathered.

"So far, everything is normal," Hughes reported after Cepeda's three for four performance yesterday.

Orlando's 1965 absence cost him his first base job. It went to Willie McCovey, who turned in some fine fielding and belted 39 homers. This spring Cepeda plays in left field.

WOMAN SCORES ACE AT MARIN

Mrs. Louis J. Compagno of 388 Fairway Drive, Novato, scored a hole-in-one yesterday at the Marin Country Club.

Playing in a foursome that included her husband and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Culver, Mrs. Compagno aced the 150-yard second hole. She used a three-wood.

Heavy Clay Favored 7-1 Over Canadian

TORONTO (AP) — Cassius Clay probably will carry the most weight of his five and one-half year pro career Tuesday night when he risks his heavyweight crown against Canadian George Chuvalo.

As the undefeated Louisville Lip and the Canadian champion headed into their final boxing drills, Clay's trainer-manager, Angelo Dundee, said he expected his charge to weigh about 212 pounds.

That would be one and one-half pounds more than the fast-moving, fast-punching Clay has ever scaled for a fight. He weighed 210½ when he dethroned Sonny Liston 25 months ago on a seventh round technical knockout at Miami Beach.

Clay weighed in at 206 for the return one-round quickie with Liston at Lewiston, Maine, last May 25 and was at 210 for his 12th round TKO of Floyd Patterson last Nov. 22 at Las Vegas.

"The weight will be fine for him," Dundee said today. "Cassius is still a growing boy."

Clay supposedly came into town 10 days ago weighing 227. He has complained that the various distractions — getting an opponent and a site for the fight and appealing his draft re-classification — have made it difficult for him to get into shape.

HAS BIG MOMENT

The champ probably will have a few pounds on Chuvalo, the 28-year-old body banger who usually weighs between 206 and 210 for his fights. Manager Irv Ungerman said Chuvalo will weigh about 209 for his big moment.

The strong-jawed Toronto mauler weighed 206½ last Jan. 25 when he was beaten by Eduardo Corletti, the unranked Argentine, in London.

Chuvalo, loser of two of his last three fights, is ranked 10th by the World Boxing Assn. and ninth by Ring Magazine.

Both fighters expect to spar at least twice within the next three days and then coast until fight time.

The promoters, however, don't figure to take it easy. They will probably come up with a few more gimmicks to ballyhoo the fight. It's a tough job with Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali, the 7-1 favorite over the 11-times beaten challenger.

There was a little fuss yesterday over the gloves. Promoter Frank Tunney displayed gloves imported from New York, and, surprise of surprises, the gloves turned out to be 10-ouncers instead of the required eight ounces.

Doesn't Look Like I'll Pitch: Koufax

Says Boss Afraid Of Price Line

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)— Southpaw pitching star Sandy Koufax says the Los Angeles Dodgers have refused the raise he and teammate Don Drysdale have asked because the club is afraid of breaking baseball's price line.

That word came today after two teammates, pitcher Johnny Podres and outfielder Al Ferfara, and writer Phil Collier of the San Diego Union, phoned Koufax at his Studio City, Calif., home.

The 26-game winner said the heart of the problem with the Dodgers is that the team is fearful of what might follow a sizeable salary increase to Drysdale and him.

"It isn't that they can't afford to give us what we're asking," he said. "They're afraid if they do it will mean giving more money to everyone else."

Koufax, who earlier insisted on a three-year contract, said he is willing to sign a one-year pact. But he said the contract worsened following a telephone conversation he and Drysdale had Monday night with Dodger owner Walter O'Malley.

SAME OFFER

"He (O'Malley) made us the same offer that we had before—$185,000 for the two of us."

Later, Dodger General Manager E. J. (Buzzie)Bavasi confirmed that Koufax had been offered $100,000 and that Drysdale, a 23-game winner, $85,000.

"I still want to pitch," said Koufax, "but it doesn't look like I will."

After the pitchers talked with O'Malley Monday, Bavasi accused them of going over his head and said that, as far as he is concerned, they can conduct all their negotiations with the Dodger owner.

"Tell Buzzie that we didn't go over his head," said Koufax. "We got a call from a third party asking us to phone O'Malley at a restaurant near Vero Beach. He had already left there, so we called him at Dodgertown. But it was a call we were asked to make."

LIPPY GETS A BRAHMA: THAT'S A LOT OF BULL

LONG BEACH (AP)—Baseball today has its Leo the Lip and Leo the Bull.

Durocher, trying to stay away from the bull, during a pre-game ceremony, instructed the donors—a rodeo—to truck the animal to the small ranch of his old friend Drysdale of the Dodgers.

"Wait till Don sees what's grazing on his front lawn," said Durocher.

HAWKS NIP BULLETS

No Home Advantage In NBA Playoffs

BALTIOMRE (AP) — Suddenly, it's the home court disadvantage in the National Basketball Assn.

Forced to play the odd game on enemy courts after finishing third in their divisions, the Cincinnati Royals and St. Louis Hawks have jumped into 1-0 leads in the best-of-five semifinal playoffs.

Cincinnati started the form reversal Wednesday in Boston, upending the perennial champion Celtics 107-103. Then on last night, St. Louis squeezed past the Bullets in Baltimore, 113-111.

St. Louis was confronted with an imposing task in whipping the Bullets. The Hawks had lost seven straight in Baltimore's Civic Center, where the Bullets had won 27 of their last 31. In the seasonal series, Baltimore held a 7-3 edge over St. Louis.

But the Hawks, after blowing a 13-point lead, won in the last 52 seconds on a driving basket by jumpin' Joe Caldwell, a one-hand corner shot by Len Wilkens and two free throws by Wilkens.

Caldwell, who averaged 12.7 points during the season, finished with 33 points after hitting his first six shots to spark a 21-11 St. Louis lead. Wilkens scored 27 points and was credited seven assists.

Franks Does Own Police Work In Post-Midnight Bed Check

HANLEY

PHOENIX—It was 12:50 a.m. and phones began ringing in the sixth floor rooms of the Giants at the Lafayette Hotel in Long Beach. It was the last day of the five-game road trip and Herman Franks was making a curfew check.

Franks is one major league manager who doesn't delegate his police work. He doesn't send his coaches from room to room knocking on doors. This was his first check of 1966 and, like those of last year, was accomplished in the simplest way.

While sitting in the comfort of an easy chair in his suite, Franks had the telephone operator go through the entire club roster from A to S. The alphabetical listing of Giants stops at S although Horace Stoneham did not make the road trip.

EVEN THE sports writers traveling with the team were not overlooked by the zealous telephone operator. The traveling secretary of the club also got a post-midnight call.

"Everybody gets checked this year," said Franks.

Did he collect any fines in his initial 1966 check?

"It's none of your business," said Franks. "I was just testing this time."

BUT IT would make quite a story if he failed to get an answer from Room 623. Willie Mays occupied that room. Was the captain of the ball club caught in a midnight curfew violation? Surely, he realized such a story would merit at least a couple of paragraphs, perhaps a modest headline.

"THAT'S THE trouble with you newspaper guys," said Franks. "You're always trying to smoke up something. Don't worry about Willie. If everybody set as good example as our captain, I'd sit back in an easy chair without a telephone in my hands."

Then, if he didn't catch Mays out after hours, did he catch the infield captain Hal Lanier or anyone else?

"I said it was none of your business," reported Franks. "But if you must know, yes. I did catch two."

Who?

"Two writers," laughed Franks.

SURELY, THE manager didn't mean to include front office brass of the Giants in his curfew checks whenever club executives make subsequent road trips with the team. At least, not Stoneham, president of the club. Or did he literally mean "everybody gets checked this year?"

To that question Franks replied: "What kind of stupid question is that?"

Young Pitchers Fill In Nicely For Sandy, Don

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Now the Los Angeles Dodgers can start worrying about Don Sutton and Joe Moeller asking for a million dollars.

The young right-handers, seeking spots on the depleted Dodger pitching staff, turned in a collectively brilliant performance yesterday as Los Angeles won only its third game of the spring, whipping Cincinnati 6-0.

Sutton, who will be 21 next week, allowed only one hit through the first five innings, and Moeller, 23 last month, gave up two the rest of the way.

That gave Sutton a spring record of two runs and four hits for 11 1-3 innings while Moeller has not permitted an earned run in 11 innings.

Their performances undoubtedly are encouraging to Manager Walter Alston, who faces defense of the world championship without the nucleus of the championship team — pitchers Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale.

The Dodgers are no closer to signing their aces now than they were four weeks ago—when the pair became holdouts.

Koufax and Drysdale, who won 49 games between them last season, want three-year contracts calling for $500,000 each, but the Dodgers want to pay Koufax $100,000 and Drysdale $85,000, both under one-year pacts.

With the two on the sidelines, Sutton seeks to replace one of them after only one year of pro ball. While playing in the California and Texas Leagues last season, Sutton compiled a 23-7 record while completing 24 of 31 starts.

Moeller is making his third try at gaining a permanent spot on the pitching staff. He was with the Dodgers for part of the 1962 season and for all of the 1964 season, but his total record was 13-18. He spent last year with Spokane of the Pacific Coast League where he was 7-10.

In increasing their record to 3-9, the Dodgers received help from Cincinnati's Deron Johnson, who is playing left field after starring at third base last year. With two out and the bases loaded in the fourth inning, Johnson dropped Nate Oliver's fly ball in short left, allowing all three runners to score.

In another three-hitter, California edged the Chicago Cubs 1-0 on Ed Bailey's run-scoring single in the second inning. Jim McGlothlin, Lou Burdette and Chuck Estrada stopped the Cubs.

Kansas City snapped Detroit's seven-game winning streak 6-5, the winning run coming across on Wayne Causey's two-out, ninth-inning single but the Chicago White Sox extended their winning streak to seven, beating Minnesota 8-6 on Tommy Agee's two-run homer in the ninth.

Boston, on the other hand, suffered its sixth straight setback, dropping an 11-4 decision to Atlanta. Joe Torre hit a two-run homer for the Braves while Hank Aaron and Felipe Alou each had three hits.

Roberto Clemente's eighth-inning homer snapped a tie and sent Pittsburgh to a 7-5 triumph over the New York Mets while Ron Brand's two-run, bases-loaded single in the eighth gave Houston a 6-4 victory over Philadelphia.

St. Louis bombed the New York Yankees 12-4 as Mike Shannon drove in five runs, and Orlando Cepeda's 500-foot blast led a four-homer barrage that powered San Francisco past Cleveland 10-4.

Rugby Game Of The Year At Berkeley

BERKELEY (AP) — College rugby's game-of-the-year takes place tomorrow at Berkeley between powerful California and undefeated Notre Dame.

The Irish are undefeated in six games and have lost only once in the past three years. California, a perennial rugby power, is 7-2 this season, with both losses to the University of British Columbia later avenged.

The host Bears have never lost an intersectional game to a United States team. They have nine veterans back from the squad that compiled a surprising 5-2-2 record last summer in Australia and New Zealand.

Proceeds from the game go toward sending poor children to summer camp. A California dual track meet against Oregon State has been shifted to noon so that spectators may see the rugby contest at Memorial Stadium at 2:30 p.m.

PREP SPORTS ROUNDUP

San Rafael Rips Riordan; Novato Merman Sets Mark

San Rafael High's baseball team beat Riordan of San Francisco in practice action yesterday in a wide open slugging match, 14-11, at Albert Field, San Rafael.

The Bulldogs batted around twice in the second inning, erupting for 11 runs with some crisp hitting.

Fred Buelher drove home two runs with a single in that wild second frame, then came around to score along with Rich Widmer on shortstop Rich Schau's double. Widmer went to first base after being hit by a pitched ball. Catcher Rocky Shone later doubled, driving in Schau, and also blasted a homer in the big scoring binge.

Joe Cunningham relieved starting pitcher Al Bongie in the second and went the rest of the way for the Bulldogs, striking-out eight and picking up the win.

San Rafael	0	1	1	2	0	0	14	8	8

Bongio, Cunningham (2), and Shone; Nannini, Lopez (2), and Maxwell. WP—Cunningham. LP—Nannini. 2B — Rich Schau, Rocky Stone (SR). 3B—Seucrs (R). HR—Shone (SR).

Sixth Straight Win For Novato Golfers

Novato High School's golf team won its sixth concecutive practice meet yesterday, defeating San Rafael High at the Indian Valley golf course, 4-2.

Novato winners were Ray Leach, Jim Kidder and Randy Hutchinson, all by 2-1 scores.

Hornets Dean Edwards and Glenn Townsend tied with San Rafael's Doug Francisco and Cris Cardinal, respectively, while Bulldog Craig Pagelow handed Novato's Mike Shultz his first practice loss against four wins, 5-4.

Hornets Lose, But Call Sets Record

Steve Call established a new school record in the 100-yard back stroke, but Novato High's mermen were dumped by Riordan High in a practice meet yesterday, 67-30, in the Novato pool.

Call clocked 1:06.5, breaking the standard of 1:07.2, registered last year. Novato's relay quartet of Ken Perei, Bill Orchard, Larry Brown and Bill Katz notched the only other first place win for the Hornets, navigating the 400 free in 4:02.7.

The Novato "B" team edged Riordan's lightweights in a thriller, 43-39. The meet wasn't decided until the last event on the agenda—the 200 free relay—won by the Hornet relay combo of Nelson Brinckerhoff, Eric Jungemann, Cris Musser and Ralph Backstedt, 1:48.6. Brinckerhoff had earlier won the 200 free, Jungemann had placed first in the 100 free and Musser the 50 fly.

Redwood Swimmers Lose In Practice

Montgomery High School of Santa Rosa drowned Redwood High's swim squad in a practice meet, 59-35, in the Redwood tank yesterday, but the Giants' "B" mermen sank Montgomery's lightweights, 71-13, with Ken James and Rich Danse posting new school records.

Danse raced to record-breaking time in the 100-yard back stroke, 1:08.3, cracking his own best of 1:09.4 registered just last week against Santa Rosa. James swam the 200 free in 2:14.1, erasing Don Keller's mark of 2:15.4, established in 1961 and also placed first in the 100 free, in 1:00.3.

Redwood varsity winners were Jim Lippitt, 115.5 points in diving; Bill Fuhrman, 57.7 in the 100 free; and Bruce Stock, 4:59.6 in the 400-yard free style.

Tam Over Drake In Non-League Golf

Tamalpais High's golf team beat Drake in practice action at the San Geronimo National Golf Course, 5-1, yesterday.

Tam winners were Nick Blonder, Brian Telford, Fred Yates, Craig Jolley, and Greg McCarthy.

Pirate Bill Blankenburg defeated Tam's Dutch Steurrmans, 4-3, chalking up his third practice win in four tries this year.

Bulldog Net Team Defeats Montgomery

San Rafael High's tennis team belted Montgomery of Santa Rosa, 6-1, yesterday in a practice match on the San Rafael courts.

San Rafael winners were John Owen, 6-1, 6-1; Dan Matin, 6-0, 6-0; Dave Hyams, 6-1, 6-0, and John Marlowe, 6-3, (second set called because of time element). Ken Shane-Rich Miller, 6-0, 6-2 and Jim Chapman-Tony Logo, 6-0, 6-1, were winners for the Bulldogs in doubles competition.

Montgomery's Dennis Travins, beat Bulldog Tom Klyce, 6-3, 6-2 in the feature match of the day.

Though San Rafael's tennis ladder has yet to be "stablized", Klyce presently occupies the number one position.

Terra Linda Swim Meet Is Cancelled

Terra Linda High's swim meet scheduled for yesterday against Lincoln of San Francisco was cancelled because the Lincoln mermen were unable to make the trip for undisclosed reasons.

JACKSONVILLE OPEN

Bolt In Lead, But Brewer Threatens

By F. T. MACFEELY

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — If Gay Brewer Jr., can keep his mind off an imminent operation on his 18-month-old daughter, he is in a good spot to continue the hottest streak in pro golf as the $82,000 Greater Jacksonville Open heads into the second round today.

One stroke off the six-under-par 66 pace set yesterday by Tommy Bolt, Brewer figured in a strong position because of the consistency of recent months when he won four tournaments.

But he admitted he is concerned about the little daughter, Kelly, who has been in a cast and is scheduled for an operation on her hip Monday. The trouble is a defect apparently existing since birth, he explained.

Brewer will head home to Dallas as soon as the 72-hole tourney ends Sunday.

He was able to concentrate well enough in his steady first round 34-33—67, with five birdies and only once coming close to a bogey.

For Bolt — whose expert shots over the past 20 years have been overshadowed by his reaction to a bad one by smashing a club against a tree — all was serene through his 34-32—66.

The 47-year-old Bolt, owner of a par 3 course at Sarasota, Fla., no longer is a regular on the tour.

Neither is Ed Furgol, 49, former National Open champion who shot a 33-34—67 to tie Brewer for second place after 18 holes.

A crowd of 59 — all eager for the $13,500 first prize — were jammed into a bundle at par 72 or better.

Miller Barber, 34, of San Antonio, Tex., and three younger regulars on the tour opened with 68s. Dave Hill, 28, of Evergreen, Colo.; Jack Rule Jr., 27, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Dave Stockton, 24, of San Bernardino, Calif., shared the spot two strokes out of the lead.

Wind bothered the late starters — including Masters champ Jack Nicklaus at 70, U.S. Open champ Gary Player at 72 — without, he said a good putt all day — and PGA champ Dave Marr at 74.

Dan Sikes, the hometown favorite, had 71 along with defending champion Bert Weaver of Broadwater Beach, Miss.

Match Vs. Par At Meadow Club

Following are leaders in the Meadow Club's match vs. par golf tournament played yesterday at the Fairfax course:

Class A—Mesdames S. J. Harrison, plus four; Norman Green, plus three; H. C. Billings, plus two.

Class B — Mmes. Mel Wolf, plus two; Harry Hartsough, minus one; Gordon Wood, minus one; Hal Cooley, minus one.

Class C—Mmes. G. E. French, plus one; Norman Ford, plus one; Carl Boegershausen, minus one; Floyd Anderson, minus one; Floyd Spence, minus one.

Sausalito Firemen Win Cage Contest

Sausalito Volunteer Fire Department scored a 70-41 victory over the Tiburon Fire Department in a basketball game last night at Del Mar School in Tiburon.

Walt Silva Jr's 26 points and Bill Erskine's 16 rebounds led the winners.

Twin Double Pays $40,212.60 To Four

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — The twin double paid $40,212.60 to four lucky bettors on the 8-5-6-2 combination at Yonkers Raceway last night.

Black Mail, $107.40, Bethany Hanover $19.60, Star Shadow $11.40 and Impercation $5.20 were the winning horses.

More Pre-Season Information On Trout Fishing Prospects

STEVENS

As promised in yesterday's column, here is the balance of the pre-season information on trout fishing by counties:

SAN FRANCISCO—Lake Merced, (north and south lakes and the impoundment), has been stocked with fingerlings (rainbows) and will be stocked with catchables later in the season. Permits are required for all persons over 18. Season permits costing $1 can be purchased at the lake boathouse or at most sporting goods stores in San Francisco. A one-day permit costing 25 cents can be purchased at the boathouse.

ALAMEDA — Alameda Creek, in the Miles Canyon section.

MARIN—Bon Tempe, Lagunitas, Alpine, Kent and Nicasio lakes are Marin Municipal Water District reservoirs open to the public for fishing. Permits are required by all persons 17 or older. Season permits costing $3 and good on all five lakes can be purchased at the MMWD offices in Corte Madera. Lagunitas Lake will not be stocked for opening day, and Bon Tempe and Nicasio will not be stocked until just before Memorial Day. Rodeo Lagoon on Fort Cronkite Military Reservation near the Golden Gate will be stocked for opening day. (The Army no longer requires permits for persons fishing in Rodeo Lagoon.) The remaining lakes will not be stocked this year but should provide some fishing from carry-over trout planted last year.

NAPA—Hennessey Lake Impoundment will be planted before opening day.

LAKE — Anderson Creek, stocked area begins about five miles upstream from Middletown and extends upstream about two and one-half miles; Upper Blue Lake, along Highway 20 between Clear Lake and Highway 101; Kelsey Creek, stocked from Bridge at Cobb downstream for about three miles along Bottle Rock Road; Pillsbury Lake, in the Mendocino Forest northeast of Ukiah via Potter Valley Road.

SONOMA—Lake Ralphine in northern Santa Rosa; Valley of the Moon Reservoir will not be stocked for opening day.

MENDOCINO — None of the waters in this county will be stocked for opening day. Cleone Lake in McKerricher State Park on Highway 1, north of Fort Bragg; Hammerhorn Lake, about 24 miles northeast of Covelo on the Upper Middle Fork of the Eel River; and the East Branch of the Russian River will be stocked later.

I could be mistaken, of course, but I fancy, with all the planting areas so generously pinpointed by the Department of Fish and Game, about 85 to 90 per cent of the planted fish will be gone. Could be a good reason for tramping upstream to try for wild trout.

THAT'S ONE chore finished, now for a quick survey of local angling:

Seems like the little grass shrimps are becoming scarce. bass and sturgeon, but, like the bullheads, sardines, blood worms and anchovies, the shrimps are becoming scare. Mayhap we will soon go back to the original hot bait, the lowly clam.

FROM REPORTS in so far this week, salmon trolling outside the Golden Gate can be termed fair to good, with a new handicap to worry about. Some company has been blasting not far from the Lightship.

Bass fishing in the San Pablo to Crockett stacks up as fair to some and not so good for others, but the fish are still around, so—goodbye, good luck and go get 'em!

Marin In League Openers

Coach Ed Grimm and his College of Marin Tars, who posted a 5-9 won-lost record in practice, hope for better results tomorrow when they open their 1966 Golden Valley Conference baseball schedule by entertaining the Santa Rosa J. C. Bear Cubs in a double-header at Kentfield. First game, a nine-inning affair, will start at noon followed immediately by the seven-inning nightcap.

Marin's leading hitters through the practice season have been centerfielder Lorry Galassi with a .400 average; first baseman Dan Herrera, .367; shortstop Bill Brody, .333; second baseman Denny Thorne, .333; catcher Ray Valconesi, .340; and rightfielder Jerry Daniele, .320. Others on the starting lineup will be shortstop Bill Hall and leftfielder Kent Pike.

Jim Timmel will pitch the first game and Bill Clarke the nightcap, according to Grimm.

Fights Last Night

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Wayne Thornton, 182, Fresno, knocked out Eddie Land, 177, San Francisco, 3.

LOS ANGELES — Frankie Belma, 145½, Wilmington, Calif., outpointed Pedro Adigue, 146, Philippines, 10.

Marinites Back From Hunting, Fishing Trip

Two San Rafael men and two from San Anselmo are back in Marin County after a month and a half trip along the lower California and Mexican coast in which they hunted, fished and skin dived.

The San Rafael men are Joe Machado, a plumber, and Pete Thornton, a paving worker. They were joined by Don Camiccia, a carpenter, and Jim Chilberg, a Pacific Gas and Electric employee, both of San Anselmo.

Their trip ran from the first of February to mid-March, and went from La Paz in Bahia California, to Cape San Lucas. Machado, a member of the Marin Skin Divers Club, did a lot of underwater photography and spear fished, catching fish up to 20 and 25 pounds. The fish included hobia, rooster fish, toro fish and Sierras.

The group even got in some duck hunting in Mexico, reported Machado, who is now planning to take in Viet Nam, where he will be a plumbing supervisor with Morrison-Knudsen Co. on a series of Viet Nam projects.

Today is Friday March 25, the 84th day of 1966 with 281 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter; the morning star is Venus; the evening star is Jupiter:

On this day in history:

Italian conductor Arturo Toscanini was born in 1867.

In 1900, the Socialist party of the United States was organized at Indianapolis.

In 1911, a fire swept the Triangle Shirt Waist Co., in New York City, killing 147 persons.

In 1947, a coal mine explosion in Centralia, Ill., killed 111 miners.

A thought for the day—American author Thomas Paine wrote: "When we are planning for posterity, we ought to remember that virtue is not hereditary."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Learn Rules So Later You May Find Out How To Break Them

When you begin to play bridge, the height of your ambition is to learn all the rules of good play.

When you have learned them, your ambition changes: you now want to know when to break all of the rules.

Opening lead — ◇ 2

The average good player would know the "correct" play with the East hand. He would win the first trick with the jack of diamonds and continue with the ace of diamonds.

NO PROBLEM

This defense would give South no problem. He would ruff, draw trumps and knock out the ace of clubs.

Declarer would regain the lead with a spade and would run the clubs to discard a spade from dummy.

East should switch to spades at the second trick, but this does no good if East makes the "correct" lead of the jack of spades.

South plays the king to force out the ace, and dummy's nine-eight of spades can then be used, if necessary, for a finesse through East's ten.

IN THE DARK

A really fine East would defeat the contract by knowing how to break the rules.

At the second trick East should switch to spades by leading the four instead of the jack.

South would play the king since it is better to play East for the ace of spades than for both the jack and the ten.

West wins with the ace of spades and returns the suit, thus setting up a second trick for the defense.

MORE INFORMATIVE

The switch to the jack of spades at the second trick is more informative, but it costs a trick.

East can afford to keep his partner in the dark by leading the low spade.

A trick is worth more than a few seconds of illumination.

Yesterday's Answer

Stock Market Closes High In Active Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed higher today in fairly active trading.

Airlines and other fast-stepping issues in electronics, aerospace, office equipment and special situations made strides.

Blue chips put on an uninteresting performance but firmed enough to give the averages a plus.

Here was the picture near the close:

Volume for the day was estimated at 7.6 million shares compared with 7.88 million yesterday.

Blue chips moved ahead a little on balance, the averages failing to reflect the big gains of a number of stocks not included in these indicators.

Polaroid rose 9, IBM 7, Zenith, Northwest Airlines and Texas Instruments about 5 each, and Fairchild Camera nearly 6.

Up about 3 were Xerox, Admiral and Burroughs. Ahead 2 or better were Maganavox, Combustion Engineering and National Airlines.

Among key stocks, Eastman Kodak gained 1 while Union Carbide, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Texaco, New York Central, Sears, Roebuck and Public Service Electric & Gas added fractions.

Benquet, up another fraction, looked like the most active stock for the third straight session, showing strength despite a company statement that there was nothing sensational about a copper ore body that had been reported.

Ahead nearly 2 were Motorola, Schering and Eastern Air Lines. Merck rose 1½.

Boeing, McDonnell Aircraft, Raytheon, American Airlines and Pan American World Airways rose a point or so.

Du Pont, General Motors, Pennsylvania Railroad and Studebaker were among fractional losers.

Prices advanced in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds declined sharply.

PG&E Tells Of College Scholarships

SAN FRANCISCO—A $60,000 a year college scholarship program has been announced by R. H. Gerdes, chairman of the board of Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Fifteen scholarships, each for $1,000 a year for four years of college, a total of $4,000 per student, will be awarded by the company annually to high school seniors in its northern and central California service area.

The scholarships have been established to honor the late James B. Black, president of PG&E for 20 years and chairman of the board for almost 10, who was devoted to furthering higher education during his lifetime.

High school seniors residing in or attending high school in PG&E's service area are eligible for 13 of the 15 scholarships. The other two will be available only to children of PG&E employees.

The scholarships may be used for any course of study at any accredited college or university in the United States, provided only that the course leads to a degree and that the student maintains satisfactory scholastic progress.

Winners will be selected on the basis of competitive examination scores of the scholastic aptitude test of the college entrance examination board, on general achievement in their high school careers and by interviews before two panels of impartial judges to be selected by PG&E. The first scholarship competitions will begin next fall and the first awards will be given for the 1967-68 academic year, Gerdes announced.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Everyone Benefits If Returns Correct

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

The Internal Revenue Service receives many millions of tax returns each year. More and more they are processing these returns by machine methods. You can help them in their job and save yourself a possible audit at the same time, by making sure your tax returns are completely and accurately filled out. Here are some suggestions that will help insure the smooth and easy handling of your return:

P. J. Wikel

Always spell your name the same way from year to year, and be sure to show your Social Security number accurately.

Make sure you check the ap-

checks for each, and attach them to the face of the returns.

Make sure returns are signed properly. If you file a joint return, both husband and wife must sign. An improperly signed return will be rejected and sent back to you.

If you itemize your deductions, and list them on a separate schedule be sure it is firmly attached to the return and that the totals of each category of deductions (contributions, interest, taxes, etc.) are shown in the appropriate lines on page two of the tax return form.

You should show your name and social Security number on any schedules you attach to your tax returns.

If you file separate returns for husband and wife, please do not staple together, just attach by clip.

Attach all schedules inside the return. Only Forms W-2 and the check should be attached to the face of the return.

The number of exemptions claimed on Page 1, Line 3b, should agree with the number of individuals listed on Page 2, part 1, line 3.

Attach all Forms W-2 to the face of the return. If it is absolutely certain you cannot obtain a Form W-2, please attach full explanation. In such instances, if the withholdings are out of proportion to the wages, the processing of the return will be delayed.

If any portion of wages is excludable as received under a wage continuation plan for sickness or injury, attach statement showing computation and give full particulars. Use Internal Revenue Service Form 2449 for

Please be careful on the arithmetic. The most common mistake made on last year's returns was arithmatic — adding subtracting, multiplying, dividing.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

46 EDITORIAL PAGE Fri., March 25, 1966 San Rafael, Calif.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Why Do Marin's Citizens Shun City Ballot Boxes?

Marin County has an enviable reputation for its voter turnout in state and national elections. A general election can be counted on to draw more than 80 per cent of those registered here, with the figure nearing 90 per cent in presidential years.

Marin holds no such record, however, for its turnout for municipal elections.

The individual vote counts far more in the local election than it does in the statewide or national contest. And the preservation of democracy depends first of all on local participation.

Yet in 1964 municipal elections in Marin, only 40.5 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots in Larkspur, 41 per cent in San Anselmo, 49 per cent in Belvedere, 50 per cent in Novato, 50 per cent in Fairfax, 56 per cent in Sausalito, and 61 per cent in Mill Valley.

In Corte Madera and Ross, which had no contests, the turnout was, of course, still smaller.

San Rafael, handicapped by holding its election in an off year and on a Monday instead of a Tuesday, drew a 52.6 per cent turnout in the city last April, and only 48.5 per cent in the entire San Rafael High School District.

At that, turnouts at the most recent municipal elections averaged higher throughout the county than they commonly have in the past.

On April 12, all cities except San Rafael will again elect council members—two in some cases, three in others—to help guide their destinies for the next four years.

If citizens care about the cities in which they live, it is their duty to vote in these elections — and to inform themselves in advance about the candidates, so they can vote intelligently.

Besides duty, it is a simple matter of self-interest.

Realistically, the local election should draw a bigger turnout than the general election—because it is where your vote counts the most.

An Old Story

The I-J has recently had several letters about deer in gardens. This is an old story in Marin—a kind of running argument between the pro-deer and anti-deer people. It is a question which cannot be settled because of the different values people hold.

There are people who feel that no garden can grow anything as attractive as deer and value the occasional glimpses of these wild creatures which are afforded them in return for a few roses. They are great enjoyers of Nature and modest gardeners, as a general rule.

Opposing them are the true greenthumbers whose garden is their pride and joy. They are against anything, from deer to cigarette butts, that cuts down their ability to enjoy what they have grown.

From a strictly conservation point of view, deer are too populous for their own good. There are too many for the limited forage available to them; more than were here when the Indians lived here, so we are told.

Anyway, among the problems of the day this will never rank with air-pollution or auto safety.

MARIN POLITICAL VIEWS

Leydecker Shows By His Attitude That He Has Been Non-Candidate

A NON-CANDIDATE made the big news in the county this week.

The announcement that Byron W. Leydecker is not seeking re-election to the Marin County Board of Supervisors came as a surprise, although his taking over the county chairmanship in a state-wide partisan race (for Tom Braden) last week was a significant clue.

Takeshita

There were some earlier indications, but no one took them very seriously; most expected another battle between former San Rafael Mayor John F. McInnis and Leydecker.

BACK IN August last year, we mentioned that "Leydecker tends to be brutally frank on the board of supervisors and has thus made many enemies . . . He just doesn't sound like a man out to win any popularity contest in 1966."

Leydecker's decision not to run may not have been entirely of his own choosing. Rumors have it that directors of Redwood National Bank, which he heads, helped him make up his mind.

Dr. William Upton, latest entry, may give McInnis a battle.

Least known is the third candidate, Mel Warenback.

Because of his activities with Terra Linda Community Services District, he has a wide following there, but he's virtually unknown in San Rafael proper.

But Warenback hopes to change all that. He "expects" the support of both Leydecker and Mayor Paul Bettini of San Rafael.

WARENBACK subscribes to the philosophies of the late Supervisor Walter Castro—personal representation, with frequent personal contacts with local groups like homeowners' associations.

"No reason why a supervisor can't drop in to homeowners' meetings," says Warenback. "The district just isn't that big."

But when he starts pounding the pavement in a door-to-door campaign in the next two months, that district is going to look mighty big.

JOHN M. DOUGLAS, director of county promotions and development, whose hiring caused quite a furor, is apparently running into more obstacles. Seems to be strained relationship between him and the various chambers of commerce officials. Local officials feel he represents government interference in their affairs.

WONDER IF County Recorder Noel Giacomini attained his goal? In his bid for re-election, he was trying to get 25 to sign his nomination papers, all with the last name of Giacomini.

ELECTION OF political central committee usually doesn't get much attention during a general election. But this year, the race for Republican Central Committee promises plenty of action. Some 35 are running for the 22 posts.

The Marin Republican Council, which is only one of about nine volunteer Republican groups in Marin, already has about half the seats on the central committee. If they can get a few more elected in June, the MRC will be in a position to dominate GOP politics in Marin.

THE CYNIC'S CORNER By Interlandi

"One thing about primaries—you find out what kind of finks you've got in your own party!"

10 YEARS AGO

The last of the old Benecia-Martinez ferry fleet, the Charles Van Damme, hove into Sausalito for dismantling.

It was disclosed that a large Hawaiian investment firm, headed by a Chinese capitalist, Chinn Ho, was the major stockholder in Latipac, Inc., which bought 2,200 acres of the McNear Ranch for development.

San Rafael Depicted As A Bad Example?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

It would seem to me that the San Rafael City planners would do well to visit the San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Association (SPUR) program workshop now being conducted at the White House in San Francisco. San Rafael is depicted as one of the best examples of flagrant violators of city planning and false economy.

It is truly disheartening to see.

Poverty Warriors' Concepts Wrong?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Those who think they can fight poverty or communism with money are as sound as our dollar.

President Johnson's poverty program is completely devoid of right reasoning; and he is not building upon a sound foundation, but upon debris. He has declared a War on Poverty, but where are his weapons with which to fight it? Is he fighting it or is he dressing it up pretty?

It is an insult to God and to a nation's intelligence when national leaders, who are supposed to possess the highest wisdom and vision, come up with big and fabricated speeches that sound like little boys dreaming aloud of everything they would like to buy in the world with the little money they have, and their committees with putrid and amatuer solutions to pressing and distressing problems. Is not a President supposed to bring solutions to problems, especially to such as have stared us in the face for many years? Anybody can set up committees.

Right has the power to overtake or supersede wrong. But judging from what has been happening to the world, how correct is our concept of every "right" we have been clinging to and upon which we have been pouring out our precious energy and dollars? When we give our approval and support to that which we have been wrongly led to believe as right, we give it power to enslave us, to blind and to weaken us and put us to sleep.

Planned Parenthood Clarifies Fee List

Editor, Independent-Journal:

We on the Board of Planned Parenthood Assn. of Marin would like to thank you for the article last Monday on the current fund drive for our clinic and proposed future projects.

I would like to say, however, that the fee schedule ranges not from $2 to $5 but from $2 to $15 and is based on the patient's ability to pay.

Response from prospective patients and from the community at large has been gratifying. With this kind of community support we in Marin can do our part to prevent unwanted children and the eventual overcrowding of every aspect of life. Responsible leadership everywhere is giving attention to the population explosion and has come to realize it is of local as well as international concern.

Woman Favors Law On Driving Injuries

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I am very happy that John B. Ehlen, Sausalito, had the courage to criticize the injustice practiced in our courts, which he called a legalized form of lying.

How wonderful it would be if a law was passed to the effect that drivers, due to drunkeness and carelessness, cause injury and loss of life — permanently lose the right to drive.

Another I-J Reader Cares About Condors

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like the author of today's (Mar. 22) "Affairs of State" to know that I, for one of 20 million people in California, do care about the fate of the California condor even if I never see one. It may well be that the condor has already entered a hopeless decline, and it may well be that the Sespe Dam project is the most practical and economic way to provide water for that part of the State, but for any man in his supreme egotism to suggest that a wild species has no right to survive because humans, in pre-empting its place on earth, have deprived it of one of its functions, is beyond belief. And if that rationale that if most of us haven't seen it, it's not worth keeping is applied to other areas of life, then I despair for the future of California.

If there aren't enough carcasses for the condors, may I suggest one?

Were Not At War; Don't Silence Critic

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Morrie Ryskind's March 17, 1966 column contained the following ominous paragraph:

"For no war, justifiable or not, can be waged as though it were a Town Hall meeting. While we're in it, democracy must take a furlough for the duration. When the command comes to go up a hill, the order cannot be put to popular vote. To disobey is treason."

Ryskind writes that he is for freedom of speech and "debate to the fullest extent" but that dissension cannot be tolerated "once the Rubicon has been crossed." Such gives aid and comfort to the enemy.

Agitation, for or against some phase of our foreign policy, must not be associated with treason. According to Attorney General Katzenbach there is no question of the right of individuals to agitate or protest, in a non-violent manner, against policies they consider in error. That is not only a right but a necessity for democracy to function. But Ryskind wants democracy to take a furlough.

Legally, we are not at war with Viet Nam. We are there due to executive action and criticizing such action is not treason. In 1964 the matter was "put to popular vote," and the American people voted for the candidate that promised peace. The demonstrators against war in Viet Nam in 1964 and 1966 have not changed their policies; the Presidential promises have changed.

We will certainly never find out if the anti-Viet Nam critics are right by silencing them. When criticism of national policy is equated with being subversive, then democacy has taken a furlough. Once the postulate is accepted that anti-Viet Nam criticism gives aid and comfort to the enemy, then basic discussion of foreign policy ceases.

A FIENDISH father has attached a speed regulator to his teen-age son's stripped-down racing car. "Did you HAVE to ruin the boy's pleasure?" wailed the permissive mother. "Remember the old proverb, my dear," answered the father. "Spoil the rod and spare the child!"

A TV COMEDIAN who is not nearly so funny as he thinks he is, received a fan letter this week that outraged him so, he made the mistake of showing it to his secretary (who loathes him). The letter reads, "When your show goes on every week, my wife sits down right in front of our set and I can't pull her away from it. She's afraid somebody might turn it on."

JOHN STRALEY'S girl friend, Winnie, disdains matrimony. She says getting married is like going to a good restaurant with friends. You order what you think you want, then when you see what some other girl has, you wish you'd taken that. She's also grown leary of those economy flight airlines. Last time she tried one, instead of a movie being shown on the flight, the pilot passed around snapshots of his family.

De Gaulle's Turnabouts Injure Western Allies' Belief In Him

WASHINGTON—Gen. Charles De Gaulle is losing credibility.

There is no more difficult a plight a political leader can get himself into than that.

WHAT HAS happened, I suspect, is that the General, so intent upon getting France out of NATO and NATO out of France, failed to see the consequences of his actions and how the rest of Europe would react to them.

Let me illustrate what I mean by lack of credibility:

Three years ago General De Gaulle blackballed Britain's admissionto the European Common Market on the ground that Britain was not sufficiently European, was tied too closely to the U.S.

Last week he reversed himself. He suggested that British membership in the Common Market would be just fine. But the facts haven't changed. Britain isn't more European or less an ally of the U.S. than three years ago.

Why has General De Gaulle shifted his position 180 degrees on Britain and the Common Market? Why does he find Britain adequately European today when only three years ago he found Britain insufficiently European?

The answer must be that this is a tactic, an effort to placate British opinion which is so deeply opposed to his efforts to end NATO or get out. And this is wy General De Gaulle is losing credibility—by showing that it is not conviction that governs his attitude toward Britain and the Common Market and by his willingness to use such a crucial issue as a tactical ploy.

THERE ARE other examples.

In 1944 De Gaulle said: "We have reached a time for integration." In 1951 he favored a European "confederation of countries to which each would delegate part of its sovereignty."

Now he says that French sovereignty must come ahead of all else, that troop integration in NATO suffocates sovereignty and that the sooner NATO is dismantled, the stronger Europe will be.

Which De Gaulle are Europe and the U.S. to believe?

In pressing his goal of ending NATO, General DeGaulle says he wants nothing so much as to further European unity and free the other members of NATO from such a close bond with the U.S.

Maybe so, but how is he serving European unity by trying single-handedly to overcome the unity of all the other European NATO nations which wish to preserve NATO and its defense partnership with the U.S.?

And how can General De Gaulle further European unity by demanding a favored position for France which he is not willing to grant to others? I refer to De Gaulle's demand that American and Canadian NATO troops get out of France unless put under French control, while at the same time demanding that French NATO troops in Germany be put under French control.

It is hard to escape the conviction that by failing to see the end from the beginning, General De Gaulle is evoking consequences he most wants to avoid.

If France quits NATO, the rest of NATO will be more dependent on the U.S.—which nobody wants.

If De Gaulle succeeds in killing NATO, he will be riskily setting the pattern for an independent German army and German general staff — which nobody wants.

War Materials Face Tighter U.S. Control

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — A new sweeping Viet Nam war move is in the making.

President Lyndon B. Johnson's lieutenants are drafting an executive order establishing a system of priorities and allocations for all strategic materials involved in defense production.

This latest war measure, due to be put on the President's desk this week, was decided on by Defense and Commerce Department authorities after military contractors complained about long delays in obtaining materials to produce supplies for the armed forces.

When approved by the President, the contemplated control system will replace the "set aside" method now in use to allot selected materials for military requirements. The existing allocation procedure is applied chiefly to copper and brass items used by a small number of manufacturers making shells and rockets. The quotas are administered by the Commerce Department under the Defense Production Act

This law, enacted during the Korean war, expires June 30.

At White House request the legislators are delaying hearings on a measure extending the act until the President determines what to do about the proposed executive order setting up new and tougher controls over priorities and allotments.

The lawmakers are being told the President is weighing reports that Moscow and Peiping are increasing their aid to Hanoi.

If this grim information is accurate, U.S. forces in South Viet Nam will inevitably be increased to 300,000, making greater economic controls mandatory to ensure an adequate flow of arms and supplies to the fighting front.

Defense Secretary McNamara's statement to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the growing menace of Communist China contained one glaring omission.

WHILE HE WARNED of the danger of Peiping's intervention to prevent the collapse of the Hanoi regime, McNamara failed to tell the senators that China already has powerfully intervened in Viet Nam.

Defense Intelligence Agency reports, known to McNamara, estimate there are now approximately 20,000 Chinese railway troops repairing bombed bridges and tracks from Hanoi to Nanning in southern China.

These service troops, which are trained for combat, were increased from 12,000 in December, 1965, to 20,000 this month. Photographic evidence exists that this build-up is continuing.

Intelligence also estimates that the number of Chinese advisers and technicians in North Viet Nam now totals nearly 5,000, with several hundred operating with units fighting in South Viet Nam.

VOICES OF BOTH Chinese and Soviet pilots flying MIG jet fighters over North Viet Nam have been recorded.

Intelligence reports also indicate the Chinese are transporting large quantities of automatic weapons and ammunition by air to North Viet Nam for combat forces in South Viet Nam.

Latest of these Chinese weapons to show up in the Viet Nam fighting is a "burp" gun capable of firig a 100-round clip in less than a minute. A Viet Cong defector reported more than 100,000 of these "spray-type" weapons have been shipped to South Viet Nam for use by regular and guerrilla troops.

THEIR SHOT-GUN fire is considered one reason for the increase in U.S. casualties in recent weeks.

Holy Kremlin, Bombs Better Never Interrupt Batman Show!

WASHINGTON — Last week the television networks played a dirty trick on the American public. NBC and CBS both pre-empted their regular shows because of the Gemini 8 flight, which had gotten into trouble and had to be returned to earth in an emergency splashdown. All the networks received angry telephone calls from viewers who felt they were being cheated out of their regular evening entertainment.

The American Broadcasting Co. was the only one who showed some consideration for its audience by putting on "Batman," the most important program in its stable, despite the Gemini emergency. But even ABC let the public down, by interrupting "Batman" with bulletins. This engendered the wrath of "Batman" fans all over the country.

IT GIVES ONE great faith in the American people, and shows the power of entertainment over news in TV programming.

If the balloon ever went up something like this could happen.

"We interrupt this program to announce that a large fleet of unidentified bomber aircraft is now heading towards the United States and the entire Air Force defense command has been put on alert."

An indignant viewer gets through to NBC. "What do you mean interrupting 'The Virginian' for a lousy news bulletin? If you don't put the regularly scheduled program back on the air your Nielsen rating is really going to suffer."

The announcer continues, "The bombers coming in from the East are believed to be the type carrying atomic weapons. All SAC planes are in the air."

A caller at CBS says, "I want to speak to Bill Paley. How dare your network substitute a news special for 'Lost in Space.' What am I supposed to tell my kids?"

"The President of the United States is meeting now with the National Security Council. In the meantime Polaris submarines have been put on station and all missiles have been ordered armed."

ABC's switchboard is flooded with callers. "You finks. Your guy came on just when Batman and Robin were about to be crushed to death in a cement mixer. Get that news bum off the air or I'm going to write my Congressman."

"THE PLANES are now two hours and fifteen minutes away from Newfoundland and are still heading straight for the North American continent. All ICBM units are on red alert. This is not, repeat, not a test."

"Let me speak to David Brinkley, operator. He's ruined my evening and I would just like to give him a piece of my mind. A guy works all day and wants a little relaxation and all they give us is news bulletins."

"But sir, there may be an attack on the United States."

"That's not my problem. Why don't you people stick to TV Guide like you're supposed to? I want to see the Bob Hope Special."

Over at CBS a caller is screaming into the phone, "I want to know if you're going to put on the Dick Van Dyke show or not. If you're not I want to go to bed. I haven't missed the Dick Van Dyke show since it's been on the air and you people better realize the American public is sick and tired of being pushed around. Why don't you leave the news to the educational TV stations?"

"We have just had a late bulletin that the enemy planes have turned back. They are returning to their bases. The President has called off the SAC bombers."

"IS THIS the CBS operator? Well you just tell your people there that the next time they pre-empt the Beverly Hillbillies for an air raid I'm going to write directly to the sponsors. Now what do you have to say about that?"

Singing Barber In Mill Valley; Sand Is Leaving Muir Beach

There is a singing barber in Mill Valley — John Lugari of the Village Barber Shop.

Plunking away at his guitar the other noon, we asked for a song and he palyed and sang a calypso, "Got a Little Girl in Kingston Town." John, who is with the Sierra Folk Singers in San Francisco, says he likes to play the guitar when he has no customers.

I DON'T KNOW where our sand has gone to," says Jack Harris whose house sits above Muir Beach the year around. The ocean comes in and takes the sand out with it. "This winter a lot more sand washed away than usual," he said. Otherwise, "all is green" from his window and, he added, "I can see cattle on the hills."

Dublin is richer because it has found Rae Menzies, Mill Valley police matron, who thought the last of her Irish relatives had died. She received a letter this week from her step-uncle, Jim Hendricks. Inside was a picture of Rae and her two sisters when tiny. Rae's mother hailed from county Tipperary.

TALKING TO A. C. Pfefferkorn of Bolinas the other day, he advises he arises at 5:30 a.m. What do you do at that hour? We queried. There's always stuff left on my desk," said Pfeff. "I get breakfast for the wife (a school teacher) and I come back to the office. If the weather is good, I work in the garden for an hour or two."

The American flag which has been flown on a sidewalk flagstaff outside the Mill Valley Bank of America is there because of a newly-enforced company policy, says manager Guido Todaro. "It has always been the policy to fly flags outside all the banks. We recently received a circular asking that the policy be enforced."

The other day a wonderful "peace nut" walked into the office. (We get a lot of walk-in trade.) She said she was all upset about the Viet Nam war and was going to write the president. "I have freedom of speech, don't I?" she asked. Yes you do, we responded.

ASKED IF she would write to local officials and newspapers and allow use of her name, she replied, "Oh, I can't do that, this is too close to home. And, I might lose my job."

AS SHE WENT out the door, we urged her to be proud of her right to free speech as per the Bill of Rights, Article I — freedom of speech, freedom of the press and right to petition.

We saw our first nuclear bomb effect computer the other night at the Mill Valley City Council meeting. Harvey Bragdon had it. It's small, plastic and has many numbers on two or three superimposed wheels. "It's already out of date," said Bragdon. He added too, "I'm seeking a peaceful use for it."

THE POLITICAL POT is beginning to bubble in Southern Marin behind doors in coffee klatches and outside with Dean Myer putting potted trees on top of cars in Mill Valley and Mrs. Marsha Owen having her name on the Gate Theater marquee. (The theater is dark at present.)

Bill Feeney, a young 84, "sixth Mill Valley Councilman," when discussing the recent New York newspaper merger, recalled when he used to sell newspapers in New York on Mulberry Street. "I bought them two for a penny and sold them for one cent. I made about 75 cents a day," he said.

FUNNY MAN George Gooding, commercial artist and picture framer at Sausalito's creative Arts, says he has two cats.

Jody has six toes on each front paw, five toes per paw in back. "Sumo is a wild, panther-looking cat, believed to be part cat and part wild cat. He is a very uncat-like cat. He follows me around like a dog, sometimes to work with me. When he is happy, he smiles. When he is sad, he is sad."

COUNTY COMMENT

County Administrator Accused Of Ignoring Own Stated Rules

FUSSELMAN

A year ago this same Friday in March, I gave you some excerpts from a two-page letter that the county administrator sent to me on Nov. 14, 1960. It was on his concepts of "principles of conduct" for the administrator's office . . . "I am a firm believer . . . in the complete responsibility and authority of the elected representatives of the people. . . ."

"He should expect the members of the board of supervisors to be in a better position than he is to take a broad view of the needs of the community as a whole. . . . If all his recommendations were uniformly and routinely accepted, he should worry either that he was ursurping the functions of the board or that the board was falling down on the job."

Here are some excerpts from this column on Jan. 22, '65 . . . "Marin is a general law county operating under State law. Until the people vote to change this type of government, this provision should not be circumvented. This general law provides that there shall be five supervisors to conduct the business of the county, together with the elected department heads and other department heads who may be appointed by the board of supervisors. The power and strength is intended to be in the board."

THE MAJORITY of this board is, in effect, circumventing these provisions. They are permitting the Administrator to shoulder in on fields that he simply has not had the training to even advise.

As reported daily, we find him calling the shots on such things as election procedures, planning matters, bond submissions and juggling the reports to the board by review boards and other appointed groups as well as keeping secret the fact that the Glide Foundation was paid for work on race relations. The sum of $8,500 was approved quietly on Dec. 14. . . . And putting his judgment against that of the California State Treasurer as to the condition of the bond market (relating to the park bonds to be voted on in June).

He now states that he plans to reorganize departments and is quoted as saying, "I believe that is all I want to say at this time"; and refusing to say what departments might be affected. There are three departments directly under him which easily could be worked over. They have a combined budget of $135,603 with a constantly expanding personnel of 23 or more now.

There is a continual attempt on his part to have closed meetings. He was "rebuffed" on this practice last Tuesday. (One of the rare times that there has been any attempt to rein him in on his free wheeling.)

The morale has become so bad that the employees have been forced to dig up out of their salaries money to have a representative. How could it be much worse?

Budget Screeners Hit Rafferty Probe Group

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Senate budget-screening committee today joined an Assembly group in recommending that Dr. Max Rafferty's Education Department be stripped of the unit that investigated "A Cat Called Jesus."

Sen. Stephen Teale, D-West Point, chairman of the subcommittee that studied the department's budget, said he wanted to abolish the three-man unit.

Although Teale's report was not formally presented to the finance group, it was understood to recommend disapproval of the $29,104 budget item for the investigators.

Teale's proposal followed yesterday's vote by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee for transfer of the investigators to the state Department of Justice. The vote overrode protests from Dr. Everett T. Calvert, Rafferty's chief aide, who charged the lawmakers were picking on the Education Department.

Calvert was acting chairman of the department's Credentials Committee teacher licenses division last year when the group ordered the investigators to check Mrs. Geri Turner Davis, the San Diego school teacher who wrote the one-act cat play.

Calvert was chairman again in January when the credentials group conducted a public hearing on the Cat case that ended with a warning that Mrs. Davis avoid writing such plays in the future. Calvert gave the warning after noting that there were no adequate legal grounds to proceed against Mrs. Davis' credential.

The entire action drew criticism from several legislators, including Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, D-South San Francisco, who conducted a two-day investigation and later supported the Justice Department transfer.

Neither the Ways and Means vote nor Teale's recommendation was a final action. Teale's report must be approved by the Senate Finance Committee, which was meeting today as other lawmakers were gone for a three-day weekend. Also, committee actions must be approved on the floor and by the Joint-House Conference Committee that drafts the final budget version.

Perhaps with an eye on these upcoming events, Calvert disclosed that the Credentials Committee had decided against investigating another controversial case: Charges against Paradise High School teacher Mrs. Virginia Franklin.

Mrs. Franklin attracted national attention three years ago when she filed $1 million libel and slander suits against local groups that accused her of teaching communism and subversion. The actions have yet to be heard in court.

In late February, a local businessman filed a complaint against her and Paradise school superintendent Doran Tregarthen because of an allegedly "obnoxious" sign made by two of her students to advertise a school dance.

Calvert said the committee decided two days ago "not to conduct any investigation." He said the group took the action after hearing reports from the state Attorney General's office, which had also received complaints, and Education Department attorneys.

Billiard Parlor Permit Granted

Marin County Zoning Administrator Thomas E. Cordill yesterday issued Alec Liu a permit to operate a billiard parlor at 941-B Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield.

Neighbors, particularly those on Stetson Avenue, protested the use at a public hearing before Cordill March 13.

Last day to appeal the decision is next Thursday. An appeal can force a hearing before the County Planning Commission.
